Family Blessings

In the Bible we read about Abraham, Sarah, and Issac their son, who meant laughter and joy.
God promised to bless them and make them a blessing,
Through them, all families of earth would be blessed.

God kept his promise. Through Abraham's family
He sent the world Jesus, His only dear Son,
Meaning peace and salvation and life everlasting,
God's very best to all families of earth.

God still keeps His promises even today
All that we are and have, gifts from His hand.
His bounteous blessings are showered upon us.
His love overflows in our hearts and our lives.

Let praise and thanksgiving, and humble petition
Fill the hearts and the lips of our family now.
Thank you, dear God, for the gifts you have given.
Make our lives clear channels for your love to flow.

Edna Schmucker Troyer.

Faith of Our Fathers

How did we obtain our freedom of religion? Is it because we live in America, or is our privilege to worship God in freedom purchased by the horrible suffering endured by our ancestors in the Reformation?

The Catholic Church enjoyed absolute political power for many centuries in Europe while actually in a period of spiritual decline. The priests abused their trust, became dictatorial, and took upon themselves the authority to present non-Biblical texts. In order to control the minds of the people, the Bible was restricted to the priesthood. Generations grew to maturity never hearing "the Word of God"! The priests not only broke faith in outright false teachings, but they also grew avid for gifts of money. Attempts by the popes to correct these infractions were not successful, nor were attempts made outside the church by such groups as the Albigenses and the Waldensians who contemplated the evil intent of the decadent church. Finally during the period 1517-1795 the forced baptism of infants, the emphasis that Holy Wars were just, and the pressure to purchase momentos that claimed their sins were forgiven caused the Anabaptists to revolt.

The Catholics filled the jails with Anabaptists and accused them of heresy. When the jails could no longer contain more bodies, other strongholds were devised. The interrogations were arranged so that either a yes or a no answer would place the Anabaptist in jeopardy. The Anabaptists were well versed in the Bible and in open debate could answer falsehoods with scriptural insight that astonished their captors. In some instances the Anabaptists were cruelly tortured until death intervened. In other cases they were held in vermin-infested jails and verbally tormented until exhaustion. They were given little food and had no hope of escaping whatever evil design their captors held in wait for them. Frequently they were bound securely with their bodies sewn in animal skins and dumped into the river to suffocate in agony.

Very few Anabaptists recanted. Their own statement of faith rang true in glorious testimony although spoken under duress and with full knowledge that their lives would be in forfeit. They did not fear death, although countless lives were lost for the cause of Christ! They prove to us again that life is not temporal and that if we would see Christ, we must choose now to be citizens of Eternity!

The Anabaptists' knowledge of the Bible was a formidable thorn in the side of the decadent church, for through the door of Biblical knowledge the Anabaptists obtained the freedom to act in faith. Baptism from the time of Christ was dispensed only to people who received a preliminary instruction into the faith and were examined repeatedly before the baptismal date set on Easter Sunday. Then, upon a confession of their faith, they were baptised. It was not scripture the priests followed when they introduced baptism by proxy for infants. The Cross of Christ was not for infants; it was for adults. Only adults could understand the "Cup" which Christ referred to in scripture. The priests were eager to baptise members into church for life, while the Anabaptists were interested in introducing lives to the Gospel of Christ, for Christ was the way to spiritual salvation!.

The Anabaptist Church became organized and visible on Jan. 21, 1525. There were two strains of Anabaptists who were named by the Catholics as "Menist," or "Mennonite." The first church to be so named was in Holland with the leader Menno Simons, a former priest, and the second was the Swiss Mennonite Church which followed the teachings of Menno Simons. The Swiss Church had membership in Switzerland and South Germany.

Our ancestors stem from this latter group and recognize their Anabaptist beginnings in claiming the same date of organization as that of the Anabaptist Church. They held to the belief of literal Biblical truth. Other tenants held in common were the following: Everyone has the right to approach God through Christ and is not obliged to seek a priest. The priests were in error when they taught the concept of earning merit by work because justification by faith is a free gift. Obedience to God through Christ and a knowledge of the Bible is of greater importance than man-made rules. The church is a brotherhood of believers. We worship God through Christ as mediator, and baptism is for believing adults. Communion is a memorial service and a symbol of Christ's death for the redemption of sinners. Foot washing at communion shows humility and brotherly love. The commandment to love one another in Christ forbids the taking of human life and the use of weapons against human beings.

The Amish Mennonite Church removed from the Mennonite body in the year 1693 due to the teachings of the persuasive young leader Jacob Ammon, who taught that a more strict canon, and ritual were required of the true believer. This group immigrated to America, and brought with them the Dortrecht Confession as found in Martyrs' Mirror; the Ausbund, a collection of martyr songs without notes; and the family Bible. The Mennonite body followed their leader Hans Reist (Reis) and were governed by the Reis Confession, which was more lenient than the confession adopted by the Amish Church.

In the eighteenth century the Amish came to Pennsylvania wearing plain, somber clothing with hooks and eyes in the place of buttons. Black shoes and stockings completed the dress code. Women wore a white net covering over the head at home, adding a black bonnet when going outside the home and on the trip to church. The bonnet was removed for the church service. Married men grew a beard and wore a flat, broad-brimmed hat. For church services they wore a mutze (split-tailed coat with stand-up collar). Except for the beards and the mutze, the children were a replica of their parents in the mode of dress. The dress code underwent little change until about the mid-nineteenth century.

When Michael Troyer immigrated to America in 1750, he went to the Northkill, a wilderness area on Northkill Creek in Pennsylvania. Jacob Hertzler was living there, and some of his descendants are found in our family. The immigrants selected land suitable for their use, and cabins were erected. Neighbors pitched in, eager to help in exchange for the latest news from Europe. Food was shared, and homes were opened to them. This was a caring and sharing atmosphere that bolstered their hopes for the future. Amish life centers around the church, and in the settlement the church met in the homes of the members.

As the bank barns became more numerous, they served as a larger and cooler place for church in the warm months. The church service lasted about two hours. There was singing from the Ausbund, and the songs were so well known that no musical notes were necessary. The leader of the singing was chosen for his ability to sing on pitch, and the congregation joined in with a slow tune in keeping with martyr hymns. No one was absent from service without a very grave reason.

In the mid-eighteenth century the Northkill was subject to frequent Indian raids. On the night of Sept. 21, 1757, the Hochstetler massacre occurred. Some of the family were slain, and some were taken captive. At this time Michael Troyer, Sr., was the father of four children with the youngest child under a year of age. These were trying times, and in fleeing the area, some of the Amish came close to the proselytizers of the Tunkers and Methodists and were lost to the Amish Church. Quite a few, including Michael Troyer, Sr., remained with the Amish but found themselves in a settlement of Tunkers within Brothers Valley, Bedford Co., Pa., where the family remained until 1816. During that time two of Michael's children went to Canada.

One can only be in awe at the difference a church affiliation meant to the Amish families. It is difficult for us to comprehend the seclusiveness and the rugged determination of the Amish not to associate themselves with the people of the world. The house church necessitated small number membership, and this, in itself, provided media for variation. Each group had a minister in charge who was under the hierarchy of a presiding bishop. The ministers themselves interpreted the bishop's counsel in accordance with their understanding of the Scripture. The interpretation of Scripture has always allowed variances with resulting misunderstanding and friction. The Amish groups relied on consensus to settle difficult passages of scripture, and the consensus in various groups depended entirely upon the humor, empathy and compassion one used in the literal translation of the Bible. When we add to the differences between the very strict Old Order Amish, the more liberal, and the very liberal church groups; we see how the small church groups provided media for devisiveness.

One of the main considerations for small church groups, outside of the physical necessity in the house church, was the desire for congregations to conform to the wishes of a presiding bishop. If the church conformed (was of like mind) with the bishop, there were no difficulties in the church, and solidarity was maintained. It was most important to the bishops that the Amish Church present a strong witness to the world. The Amish not only were to live a Christian life, they also were to witness this religion to the outside world by an example. It was a witness to plain living, obedience to God, and caring for the brother-in-Christ. It was doing good instead of evil; it was sharing of possessions and selflessness rather than greed; it was conforming one's life to the teachings of Scripture, no matter how difficult the task.

These little seed groups kept their membership intact by the dependence upon the brotherhood for financial, physical and spiritual assistance. When one voluntarily chose to leave the gemeinschaft, or brotherhood, it was difficult to survive, and few made the break.

Before the mid-nineteenth century the old Order Amish had little communication with other denominations. They were a separated people. If one left the Amish Church, he was lost to the membership. The Amish Conference communicated with one another, and when a person was under the ban, he was not readily accepted by a sister Amish Church.

By 1810, the second generation of Troyers were residents of Walnut Creek Twp., in Ohio, first called Tuscarawas Co., an area later given to Holmes Co., Ohio. In 1861, the Amish Church from Pennsylvania to Iowa was undergoing a traumatic experience. The leading bishops from Pennsylvania decided it was time for conformity in order to make a more precise witness in the Amish Churches. Under consideration was the ban, shunning, dress codes, and other problems encountered by the various ministers across the country.

The newer congregations on the edge of civilization were organizing in accordance with area needs. They became lax in complying with the more strict codes of Amish behavior, and, being congregational in nature, it was their custom to let the majority rule in deciding which discipline to stress. So these matters were the subject of many discussions, and, when all was finished, each church decided what they would do: remain Amish, become Amish Mennonite, or become Mennonite. These were the labels applied to the three catagories of the faith indicating whether the church was conservative, liberal or progressive. Some broke with the Amish Conference immediately and selected another name for the church. In Ohio the Walnut Creek Amish Meetinghouse became the Walnut Creek Mennonite Church. This is the church our ancestors attended.

Troyers today belong to many denominations. We must never forget the trials and suffering of our ancestors. Our forebears endured persecution so we and our descendants might worship according to the dictate of the Holy Spirit! The life of the immigrants was so bitter that the treacherous seas and the frail boats held no fear for them. They lost companions and children in the voyage to a land which held forth a promise of the right to worship in freedom of conscience, a land that would permit the possibility of worshipping God in truth and in purity. They have given us a priceless gift. May we cherish their faithfulness!

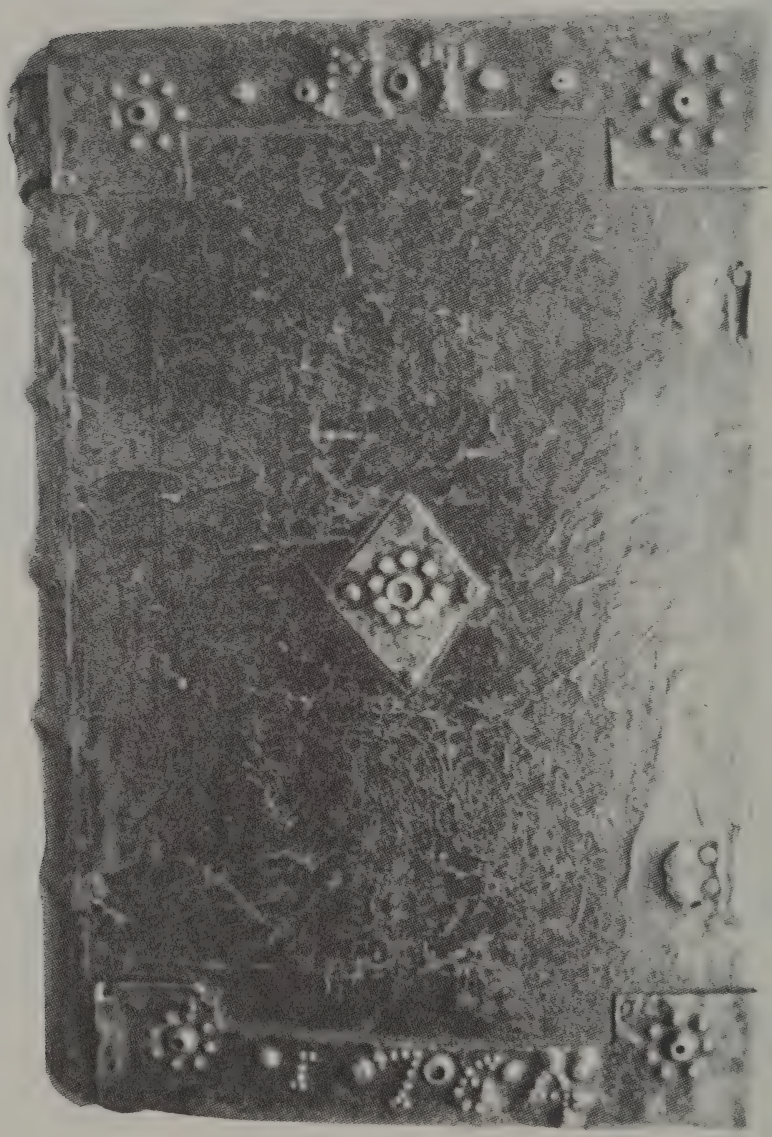
Troyer Family Bible



"Our" branch of the Troyer family descends from the immigrant Michael Treier, Sr., father of fourteen children born 1753-1781 (1754-1781 Gregorian calendar). Quite a few people with a possible variation of the Troyer spelling immigrated early to this country. Among them we find: Michael Trolers, 1739; David Dreher on Ship Friendship Oct. 12, 1741; Ship Brotherhood 1750, (account later); Michael and Andreas in 1767.

It was the opinion of Moses Troyer that a David Troyer was the ancestor of our line (note 9179 DJH p. 960). There is some question and skepticism of this decision. Moses Troyer and some others thought all children by both Michaels were the family of one Michael and so placed David as the father of Michael, Jr. (DJH 9179). There is some consensus that in the early days "our" Michael Troyer, Sr., was known as David Michael, and he is identified on the 1790 census as Michael Troyer, Sr., with his son Michael Troyer, Jr. Could David Michael be a David's Michael, signifying he was a son of a David who died early in our history?

Seth Troyer, a grandson of Michael Troyer, Jr., and son of Daniel Troyer, made a statement about his great-grandfather to the writer of The Wayne and Holmes Co. Ohio History, p. 660. In this history, Seth related in substance:

"...his great-grandfather Michael Troyer was brought to this country between the years of 1745-1750 when a boy of eight years by his stepfather Holly. They settled in the Co. of Somerset, Pa., where the grandfather Michael Troyer, Jr., was born. In 1816 Michael Troyer, Jr., and his son Daniel, born in 1802, came to Ohio where his father purchased six quarter sections of land." (Michael Troyer, Jr., spent his last days in the home of his son Daniel Troyer.) JVM).

Michael Treier our ancestor came to America on the Ship Brotherhood on Nov. 3, 1750 to the Port of Philadelphia, Pa. with his stepfather Mr. Holly. This is the only written history by a descendant of Michael Troyer, Sr., that we have except the one name Michael Treier in the family Bible (p.x).

If Seth has based his statement on information obtained from his grandfather Michael Troyer, Jr., then we should regard it as our ancestry with an error in the age of Michael Troyer, Sr. As the written history stands; it gives our immigrant ancestor, the time and place of arrival, the name of the ship, something about his parentage, and four generations of lineage directly tying our Michael to a given boat and a relationship to the Holly family. The ship list has three Holly names, and while the possibility is there that our Michael came to America as Michael Holly, the possibility is there also that our Michael was 15 (just under the age to sign the ship register).

> The Mennonite Encyclopedia Vol. IV p. 750 states: "By 1733, Treyers (Troyer) from Canton Bern, Switzerland , moved to Penn., settling in Berks Co. These are all Amish. By 1752, the brothers Michael and Andreas Troyer were in the Northkill Amish Congregation in Berks Co., Pa. The Troyer family spread west to Somerset Co., Pa. and to Ohio and Ind."

We know little concerning the parents of our ancestor Michael Treier. We have located three Troyer Bibles: the 400-year-old-Bible brought back in 1767, the 235-year-old-Bible rescued from the Chicago Fire in 1871 and now in Canada, and the Bible containing the original listings of our Troyer family sold at auction with the family papers removed. This last Bible was owned at one time by Moses K. Troyer, and it is presumed that his descendants in the Chicago, Ill. area may have some information in regard to the final ownership of these papers. The Bible itself is now owned by Leroy Beechy, whose wife is a descendant of Michael Troyer, Sr. The Bible is large with a leather-covered wooden jacket decorated with hammered brass. The Bible cover has MT at the top in metal nail heads, and the date 1749 at the bottom (p. 6).

Tracing the genealogy of the Troyer family is both a challenge and a perplexity. We have oral history that we are unable to prove satisfactorily, and no doubt part of our history is clouded by the Amish division which excommunicated family members when they left the Amish church. Has Amish seclusiveness denied us a knowledge of our heritage?

We have no record of when the name Treier changed to Treyer, and finally Troyer. Since Y is the upper case of i in the German language, it is easy to see how the Treyer came into being. The name Troyer possibly developed over time. In Switzerland the name was spelled with a D, making Michael's parents Dreiers when they lived in Switzerland. While this seems odd to us, it is even more amusing to learn that Tiller becomes Diller in America. It is not known how Michael signed his name when asked by the Colony of Pennsylvania, but we know the brassbound Bible he purchased has his name written as a Treier. We do have a record of his true name.

We do not know when the initial D was added to the names of the children of Michael, Sr. If it was done before the beginning of the 19th century, then it could be valid proof that David Troyer is our ancestor.

There was actually very little free time to pursue a study of family history in the early days. Life for the pioneer was a bid for survival. Food and wood for the fire kept all hands busy after the ground was cleared for planting. The work days were long, and comfort was found most often outside the cabin. In some cases out of grim necessity leveled tree stumps served the purpose for seating inside the cabin that covered them. A woman of Amish descent was questioned once about family history and why there were few written records. She said; "Well, everybody knew all about it, so we saw no reason to write it down." So today we must search for material on our ancestors and hopefully find scraps we can piece together.

I am certain many questions come to mind. What about the Mast Genealogy statement concerning Michael? We are not certain the person mentioned is "our" Michael since he is not clearly identified, and the children listed do not agree with our list. Was Magdalena Mast married to our Michael? There are some people who believe that Magdalena Mast was the only wife of Michael Treier, Sr. It is generally believed that " Michael Troyer, Sr., was born in Europe but probably not in Switzerland, though the family came from Trub, Canton Bern. (Michael's will was dated 1803, p. 44 , and he died in April of 1807). He married Magdalena Mast, sister of Bishop Jacob Mast (who married Magdalena Holly, daughter of Johannes Holly). Michael and his brother Andreas, who are listed as Michael and Andreas Holly on the ship list, may have been stepsons of Johannes Holly."

Perhaps if we knew the basis upon which the early statement concerning Michael Troyer and Magdalena Mast was made in the Mast book, it would be more readily acceptable. One of the problems is the 28-year span (1753-1781) in birth dates for the children. If Michael had one wife bearing her first child at age 16, she would be 44 years of age at the birth of her last child. We do know the widow of Michael, Sr., was Magdalene and she died in Ohio in 1827. (As we continue our story of Michael Troyer, Sr., we can but use the written record of Seth Troyer. Until we learn additional facts to the contrary, Seth Troyer's statement is our fact, and we continue on that assumption).

It was not unusual during immigration for some members of the family to board a ship before the rest of the family in order to secure suitable quarters on the voyage to America. We assume this is the reason John Holly's name is separated from the name of Michael and Andreas on the ship list. Each family partitioned a section for themselves in the hold of the ship, and this area became the living quarters for the journey. It was communal living with little chance for privacy, and each family took responsibility for their own care. Some families toasted a huge sack of bread for the trip, that became a horrible and moldy mess before the trip was over. The long trip was tiresome. Seasickness was common with accompanying bad odors mingled with lack of ventilation, or sanitation. The small children, elderly, and others who became ill on the trip often died and were buried at sea. When the journey was delayed due to bad winds, food gave out and people were reduced to conserving food for the ill. Some days the ocean was relatively calm. Then children and adults could enjoy the sun on deck.

There was great excitement at the dock in Philadelphia with the gathering of family and possessions. John, Andreas and Michael were required to sign allegiance to the Colony of Pennsylvania and to the Crown of England. The family with baggage intact travelled the thirty miles north to a gap in the Blue Ridge Mountains known as the Northkill, named after a stream in the area. When they came into the clearing, they were surprised to find a small community already established.

The Northkill settlement was at the edge of the frontier. Indian raids were not uncommon, and some were very near the settlement. The summer of 1757 was unusually quiet. They had an Indian raid in June, but following that, silence. On the morning of Sept. 21, 1757 word spread like wild-fire as news of the last outrage spread among the Amish people. The Jacob Hostetler family were attacked by a band of Indians. Three were murdered, and three were taken captive in the raid. The closeness of the raid brought awareness of the vulnerability of the settlement. They obviously misjudged the peril they were in, and the Amish no doubt trusted too much in the blockhouse where the army visited infrequently to inspect a supply of munitions. Soon there was a general exodus. Some left quickly. Others delayed or came back at another time. In a few years the settlement was extinct.

At the time of the Indian raid on the Hochstetlers, our ancestor Michael Troyer, Sr., was married and the father of four children. The youngest child Barbara was scarcely more than seven months of age. Michael and his family remained Amish as did others strong in the faith.

We know that the Michael Troyer Sr. family fled south during the war years. Some fled to Morgantown at the southern tip of Berks Co. Some went to Chester Co., Pa., and others fled to Virginia. Records were not kept as well during the war, and those kept were not all that reliable. (J. Virgil Miller points out that he has a record from Salisbury Twp., Lancaster Co., Pa. for 1771 that includes John Holly and Michael Troyer from the Penn. Archives Series IIII. These are listed in 1772, 1773, and 1779. In that year Michael sold out and went west.) From what I have discovered in early Bedford records, it seems likely that the account given refers to Michael, Jr., as Michael, Sr., is on record in Bedford Co. Oct. 13, 1771, listed in The Somerset Co., Outline and Supplement by John C. Cassidy, on p. 133. The list has John Tyer with 250 acres, Michael, Jr., with 50 acres, Michael, Sr., with 100 acres. Vol II History of Bedford and Somerset Cos.(p. 62) mentions Michael Troyer, Sr., was the first of that name to come into the settlement. Within a year or two others of the name followed. The next Federal Supply Tax List 1783 lists: Tryer Christian 150 acres, John Tryer 150 acres, Michael, Jr., 80 acres, Michael, Sr., 150 acres (found on page 145). The 1784 Tax List with number of persons in the family, p. 159: Tryar, Christian 3 persons, John Tryar 3 persons, Michael, Jr., 6 persons, Michael, Sr., 11 persons. The 1790

Tax List Bedford Co.: Hendry Troyer 1 male over 16 and 1 female; Michael Troyer 1 male over 16, 2 under sixteen, and 6 females. The 1796 Tax List Brother's Valley, Pa. lists Michael Troyer and Michael, Sr. The 1810 Pa. Census lists: Hendry Troyer Somerset Co., Stoney Creek Twp.; Jacob Troyer Somerset Co., me ?(Meyersdale Twp.); Joseph Troyer Somerset Co., cn ?(Conemaugh Twp.); Michael Troyer Somerset Co., bu ? (Buffalo Twp.).

Continuing with the p. 62 Vol. II History of Bedford and Somerset Counties: We find Michael Troyer, Sr., lived west of Berlin on a small tributary of Buffalo Creek, and by 1780 he was operating a small tub mill. This site must be within a 3 mile radius of Berlin. On the return of the taxables (1783-1784) we have the following:

	horses	cattle	sheep	houses
Michael Troyer, Sr.	2	4	6	1
Michael Troyer, Jr.	1	4	3	1

In 1790 Michael, Sr., purchased a farm about 3 1/2 miles north of Berlin adjoining the Blough farm. There was a large cemetery between the two farms on the Blough farm. The cemetery today is quite small, and although the register of the cemetary lists Michael Troyer, Sr., Michael's mother, and Michael's wife, it seems likely that (Maria) Anna, the wife of Michael, Jr. was buried here. (Michael, Sr's only known wife was buried in Holmes Co., Ohio.) It also seems likely that Christian Troyer's first wife was buried here also as she died in 1790. Michael's mother may be buried here. We do not know when she or John Holly died. If John Holly died first, she could have spent her remaining days with Michael and would be buried in the family plot. It seems that all the graves are now plowed over. The few tombstones remaining are gathered tightly together into a small plot. Rumor has it that a large number of children belonging to the Michael Jr. family are buried here. Michael, Jr., lived in a cabin on Buffalo Creek, and possibly Michael, Sr., and Michael, Jr., lived quite close together until 1780, as history tells us there were two cabins in the area (one standing at a later date), and indentations are evident proving the existence of another cabin.

Calvin Wills, a genealogist and historian, told us that the S. Boyd Dickey Farm was likely the Troyer farm we were searching. We left the Wills farm and drove until we passed a brick house on the left with a road beside leading into a woods. At the end of the lane we came to the Dickey property. When Michael Troyer lived there he had a log cabin. Michael d. in 1807 and gave his home place to his last child Elizabeth and her husband David Miller. The Miller family resided there until 1812 when they sold out and moved to Holmes Co., Ohio taking Magdalena with them. The farm today has been placed on National Register of Historic Places. The brick house with white-wrought iron double porches, upstairs and down, is beautiful. It is nestled on a slight incline, while down below the first building you see from the lane is a large red barn. The house was built by a John Forney who owned the place after 1812. The Dickey family purchased the farm in 1916. (See Additions and Corrections p. 241).

There was quite a settlement of Tunkers around and near Berlin, Pa. in Brothers Valley Twp. The community spoke German, and the children played together in complete harmony. The land opened in 1769, and the Tunkers moved into the area before the land was purchased from the Indians. In the early years it was neither safe nor legal for them to be there. With Tunkers all about them, each church worshipped in the accustomed fashion, and there were no problems by reason of the German tongue.

While there were no problems with the neighbors, there were problems with the Patriots. The Troyer family tried to be neutral in the Revolutionary War for several reasons. The main reason was they were noncombatant for religious reasons. Another pressing problem confronting them was an instance in Europe when the Amish petitioned for over ten years for the right to worship in their own church building. (A privilege they were denied for over one hundred years). At near the end of the ten years petitioning, when they thought all was lost, influential friends and England came to their rescue and persuaded the ruling soverign to permit them to hold church services openly. With some restrictions, they were permitted their own church. Out of all the despots that ruled them, England was their only benefactor. There was also the matter of the paper that Michael signed as a new immigrant, pledging allegiance to the Crown of England. If the war failed for the Patriots, as it seemed to be in the process of doing, would he and his family be deported? What would they do then? Amish were known to be men of their word. A handshake culminated a deal. The oral word was binding. How did one deal with fanatics? No doubt the household of Michael Troyer, Sr., was much in prayer during these trying times.

The German immigrants from the Palatinate were mostly of one accord: the Revolutionary War was self-induced. The Patriots agitated for war, and they could stop it. There was no need for the slaughter of innocent men. The Amish had no problem with the war tax; they paid it quickly, for this kept their sons out of war. It was a small token to pay for the benefits of living in the colonies. Michael's sons were farmers; they were providing food in excess of their own needs. They were supplying products the war-torn country needed. Were they not helping?

While the sons of Michael Troyer, Sr., were perhaps all subjected to harassment, it appears that John Troyer was the particular target of the Patriots. We do not know whether the harassment was due to the fact that John joined the Tunker Church, and no longer was given the same deference accorded the Quakers, Mennonites, and the Amish, or because of the tax list of Oct. 13, 1771, which lists John Troyer with 250 acres of land. By 1783, John was down to 150 acres of land. The harassment evidently continued because on John's petition for land in Canada he states, "The Americans took all my farm, and lands."

During the war the Patriots gave religious groups a very difficult time; this was due largely because the Patriots were of the poorer classes, and those who maintained a noncombatant stand had the money to pay the war fee. Not only was it a matter of buying oneself out of a war, the Loyalists had all the appearances of profiting from the war at the expense of the life and blood of the Patriots!

The Patriots sized the situation up in this matter: if the people would not go to war, they were Loyalists. If they were Loyalists, then they were the enemy! The peace-loving Quakers were no longer in control of the Continental Congress. A suggestion was made by the new Congress in 1777 that property be confiscated from those loyal to the Crown. Bands of Patriots acted upon this suggestion and turned their hapless victims out in the night--women, children and all--out of their homes, with only their night clothing to protect them from the elements. This happened often enough that intercession was made on behalf of the victims, as interested friends sought redress in the local courts. Extreme measures of this sort were modified, and victims were able to retain a heating stove in the dead of winter, but a measure of property was confiscated. The upheaval was catastropic, as Patriots gained lands and Loyalists were taxed off their lands. The money exchange was anti-Loyalist, and there was much suffering of innocent people.

The Constitution was ratified in December of 1787, and a President was seated on April 30, 1789. The next step was a formal pledge of allegiance to the new country. This, John and Christian felt they could not do, and they made plans to migrate to Canada. There was sadness in the Troyer homestead. Although the family lived nearby, whether they would see John, and his brother Christian again loomed uppermost in their minds.

No doubt the tribulations of the war years weighed heavily on Michael, Sr's mind. His health was failing about 1803, and he realized the necessity of a will in which he tried to make equal and fair distribution. He wished to provide for Magdalena, his wife. His will was ready when he died in the spring of 1807. Magdalena had a place to live out her remaining years, and Elizabeth was designated to care for her needs. Barbara predeceased her father. She was living in Elklick Twp. at the time of her death. Anna and her husband were in Quemahoning Twp. Madlena and Henry were in Stoney Brook Twp., while Joseph was in Conemaugh Twp., Michael, Jr., in Buffalo Creek Twp. and Jacob in Meyersdale Twp. John and Christian were in Canada. The remaining members of the family: Mary, Andrew, David, Veronica and Elizabeth were all married and living in Brothers Valley, Pa. at the time of the death of Michael Troyer, Sr.

EARLY TROYER MIGRATION TO OHIO

John Troyer, grandson of Michael Troyer, Sr., was the first member of the Troyer family to migrate to Ohio. There is a difference of opinion about when this move was made, but it seems most likely Mildred Lehman is correct in stating the move took place in 1809. Since travel time with a Conestoga wagon was rather slow with Magdalena (Miller) Troyer driving the family livestock all the way, it is likely the trip from Pennsylvania began in mid-June and terminated on July 14, 1809, when the family found a wild-pig-infested cabin south and east of the present community of Walnut Creek, Ohio. It was not unusual for the early settlers to walk from Pa. to Ohio, and many-a pioneer came in just that way, although in Magdalena's case it might seem unusual, since she was pregnant. Walking was perhaps preferable to being jolted in the Contestoga. It was near her time to be delivered. Her son John was born two weeks after they arrived, on July 26, 1809. While his family rested south and east of the Walnut Creek area in a three-sided cabin, John erected a new and more comfortable cabin for protection during the winter months.

In the spring the family was joined by three couples, and they settled in and around the Walnut Creek area. The four couples are listed in history: John Troyer and wife Magdalena (Miller) Troyer; Jonas and wife Catherine (Hershberger) Miller; Joseph and wife Sarah (Miller) Mast; and Christian with his wife Anna (Hershberger) Yoder.

Magdalena, Jonas and Sarah were children of Peter Miller and his wife Mary (Stutzman) Miller. It was Peter Miller, his brother Jacob, and sons of both men who scouted the area in 1803 for possible land settlement. In this community of 13 people, Peter Miller was father of 3, father-in-law of 3 and grandfather of 5. In other words 11 people of the 13 were related to Peter Miller. Anna and Catherine Hershberger were sisters, and their three brothers came to Ohio in a later migration. John Troyer was about 32 years of age, Magdalena was 28, Jonas was 21, Catherine was 20. Sarah was likely on a honeymoon trip as she was 16. Joseph was 24, Christian, 25, and Anna (Hershberger) Yoder, age unknown.

John and Magdalena Troyer brought the only children into the community: Michael b. Aug. 15, 1802; Samuel b. July 13, 1803; Mary b. May 15, 1806 near Walnut Creek, Ohio (according to birth records); John b. July 28, 1809; Abraham b. c. 1810; Sarah b. Nov. 15, 1811. (It is not known where she was born, in Ohio or Pennsylvania.)

TROYER MASSACRE?

In the Jacob D. Troyer Genealogy, Denamae Kirkpatrick makes the following statement:

> "It is on record in Walnut Creek, Ohio that Michael's son, John, was killed by the Indians when a very young man in 1813. Christian was killed at age 23 by the Indians."

John, son of Michael Troyer, died unexpectedly before Feb. 25, 1812. This account is a matter of court record in the Orphans' Court, Somerset Co., Pa. The children of John and his wife Magdalena (Miller) Troyer are named, and Magdalena's father Peter Miller, her brother Joseph Miller, and a Yost Miller signed the papers as guardians of John Troyer's children.

A number of years ago I read in the Wayne Co., Ohio Library of an Indian Massacre in either Wayne or Stark Co., Ohio in which Abraham Miller was massacred by the Indians in 1812. As nearly as I can recall, (I am unable to get an exact duplicate of the item) there were others with Abraham Miller who were also injured. I recently have found a date listed for Somerset Co., Pa. in which an Abraham Miller was deceased on Jan. 31, 1812. In searching the Somerset Co. History, it seems this particular Abraham Miller was originally from Maryland, a son of a John and Elizabeth (York) Miller who moved to Pa. for a few years and then moved to Stark Co., Ohio in 1810. They settled near Greentown (now) in the midst of a dense forest. During 1812 the Indians were given whiskey by the English and became incited enough that settlers fled the country, some not returning until 1815. Since these incidents occurred in 1812, there could be some connection.

The Sesquiecentennial History of New Carlisle and Walnut Creek, Ohio reports nothing of an Indian Massacre, and the first death recorded is that of Solomon Miller in 1815. The reports one does find call it an Indian "scare" and that residents of Ohio in 1812 picked up their belongings and returned to Pa. Some buried valuables, expecting to return for them at a later date.

Whether John Troyer and his brother Christian were returning to Ohio with Abraham Miller (possibly a relative of John's wife) or whether the threat of an Indian attack served to send him and his family of six children to Pa. before 1812 is not known. Possibly John, Christian and Abraham Miller were returning for the stock. It is also possible that John and Christian were victims of another Indian attack. It will take much more research to determine if a recording of these massacres took place.

History says the people did not come back until 1815, when all possibility of Indian attack was averted. By that time, the Indians themselves were largely removed from the area. One senses the sturdy families of the pioneers were not easily frightened. It appears that more than a "scare" happened to make them pack up and leave their homes. It seems reasonable that they may have been removing the injured parties to Pa., where adequate medical help could be found. The areas near Smithville, Ohio, Wayne County, and Stark County, Ohio were sparsely, if at all, inhabited at that time. Military records of 1812 might yield the only account of the massacre.

Attempts to reach the author or publisher of the History of Jacob D. Troyer have been unsuccessful. Jesse Smucker descendant of Sarah Troyer, the last child born to the John Troyer family, could give no information on a family massacre. Efforts to obtain information from Wayne Co., Ohio Public Library and the Wooster Genealogical Society have been unproductive. If the massacre was the "scare", then it is possible that John and his family left Ohio about that time, and his brother Christian was helping him move. There is also the possibility John and Christian were scouting for land in the Wayne Co., Ohio area, and Abraham was perhaps assisting in the search.

We do know that John Troyer son of Michael Troyer, Jr., did die accidently before Feb. 25, 1812, for on that date he was declared dead by the court of Somerset Co. and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. An administrator, Yost Miller, was selected to handle the estate. The papers were signed by Jost Miller, Peter Miller, and Joseph Miller. See p. 47 .

On Aug. 11, (no year noted) a petition was filed on behalf of the six children of John Troyer, who are orphans all under the age of fourteen, with no one to care for them. The guardians named are Peter Miller, Sr. and Joseph, son of Peter. The petition is dated Aug. 30, 1814. See p. 49 .

An interesting statement on the list of Debits and credits p. 48 . is no. 6, where the grandfather Michael Troyer, Jr., was paid $5.00 out of the estate! This is the same Michael Troyer, Jr., who later purchased land holdings so large they are still recalled as "Troyer Valley". Why would he extend a bill to the orphans' estate for $5.00? All these records are stamped in Somerset Co., Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Troyer children: Abraham, Samuel, Michael, Mary, John and Sarah were under the guardianship of the Miller family and later found a way to come back to Ohio, possibly at the time Yost Miller moved to the area in 1816. There is a record of Magdalena's inheritance of her "thirds" dated 1815. Yost concluded the transaction presumedly in Pa. John, Magdalena, and Christian are presumed buried in the Miller family plot in Pa.

HENRY THE "BEAR KILLER".

Michael Troyer, Sr., had one son who became quite a colorful figure in the annals of history. Henry was known in historical records as "Henry the "Bear Killer". Two such stories are listed in #596 of the genealogical section. I have found two more stories. The first may relate to how Henry obtained his flour. A female bear came into a cave which Henry had used as a refuge from the weather. Henry was between the bear and her two cubs so he gave the bear a hammerlock, and choked her to death. The second story is recounted in Ohio History without the name Henry mentioned. Henry was out hunting when he became tired and crawled into a hollow log to sleep. He had carefully built a fire to keep warm and to keep out the wild animals. When he awoke the log was on fire. He threw his ammunition out through the fire and then his gun. When nothing happened, he crawled out through the fire unscathed.

THEY MIGRATE TO OHIO

The first son of Michael Troyer, Sr., to take up residence in an area known as German Twp. was Joseph Troyer. He came with his wife Maria (Kauffman) Troyer and ten children the long journey over the Pa. mountains in a Conestoga wagon, with a team of horses carrying their household goods and a new baby b. in March of 1811. They selected a place north of the present Bunker Hill community that was a wilderness. They cleared the land for a cabin and fields for planting. From this line come the wives of Eli, Edward and Ellsworth Troyer of "Our" John Troyer line.

Elizabeth (Troyer) Miller, with her husband David and her mother Magdalena Troyer, widow of Michael Troyer Sr., made the trip in 1811. The Millers were parents of twelve children and settled in Walnut Creek Twp., Ohio.

Jocob Troyer came to Ohio in 1814, and it is not known which of his two wives, Catherine Mast or Maria Wengard, made the trip with him. They were parents of eleven children. They settled in the Chestnut Ridge area of what is now known as Holmes Co., Ohio. Jacob became a very large land owner, and his descendants are found in Indiana and Ill.

Veronica (Troyer) Miller and her husband Jacob came to Ohio in 1815, first to German Twp. and then to Berlin Twp. They were parents of nine children.

Sometime between 1814 and 1816 Christian Troyer, who migrated first to Ontario, Canada and was instrumental in having 35 or more people migrate to Canada, returned as a resident in Ohio bringing his wife. They brought a son David, known as "Canada" Dave, with his eight children. Christian made his home with David and his family. Christian was a resident of Canada for thirty-two years. He purchased land with his son David in Coshocton Co., Ohio, in 1820. The site purchased was halfway between Charm and Walnut Creek, Ohio. Seven of David's children were b. in Canada, and two were b. in Ohio after migration. All of the children except Elias moved elswhere in the States, some settling in Elkhart, Ind. Elias was the only son to remain in Ohio and is an ancestor of Levi Troyer 41, 43, and 1245.

David Troyer, brother to Christian (above), married Barbara Schrock, dau. of the immigrant John Schrock. See Schrock-Shrock Family History p. 210 . They came early into what was known as German Twp. and later became Clark Twp., Ohio. David and Barbara were parents of ten children and from this line we have Elsie Keim who married Paul Troyer and Jonathan Troyer, husband of Nora Troyer. Paul and Nora are descendants of "our" John Troyer line.

In 1816, Michael Troyer, Jr., and his family migrated to Ohio, perhaps with his second wife Magdalena (Reichenbacher) Yoder. Magdalena was married previously to Yost Yoder, and they were parents of five Yoder children when her husband died. HG&RK. Seth Troyer, grandson of Michael Troyer, Jr., reports his grandfather as parent of a large number of children. We are able to find ten children for this family and are not certain if Seth included the Yoder children in this statement or whether many of the children died young. Michael Troyer, Jr., became a very large land owner and lived in German Twp. Ohio in the area dubbed "Troyer Valley". Michael Troyer, Jr., is an ancestor of "our" John Troyer.

Andrew Troyer and Magdalena (Reichenbach) Troyer, a sister to Anna (Reichenbach) Troyer, first wife of Michael Troyer, Jr., came to Berlin Twp., Ohio by 1820 and were parents of five children.

Mary Troyer married Andrew Keck. This family settled in the Walnut Creek Twp., Ohio area and were parents of ten children. This family is ancestor of Caroline (Schrock) Troyer.

Nine children of Michael Troyer, Sr., resided in Ohio; John remained in Canada. Four of Michael's children lived in Pennsylvania all their lives. The Ohio residents were more thickly populated in Walnut Creek Twp. and were no doubt involved with the several Amish Churches during the separation of the various churches from the Amish Conference. Enough family members attached themselves to the Walnut Creek Amish Meeting house to be charter members of the church.

In the genealogical section we have what little is known about the children of John Troyer, deceased Jan. or Feb., 1812. John's son Michael is father of "our" John Troyer born in Holmes Co., Ohio, as the second son of Michael and Barbara (Miller) Troyer 30, 1285, about fourteen years after his great-grandfather Michael Troyer, Jr., left his home on Buffalo Creek south of Berlin, Pa. and moved to Ohio, and eighteen years after his grandfather John Troyer died unexpectedly in Somerset Co., Pa.

The migration "our" ancestors took to Ohio started a wave of Amish migration that made Holmes Co., Ohio one of the biggest settlements of Amish in the world today. Holmes Co., Ohio is a beautiful county. The farms are carefully tended by master farmers who descend from a long line of persecuted peoples forced in Europe to farm mountainous, stoney tracts, bogs, and overworked land. The Amish were noted in Europe for their ability to turn waste land into lush farms. Their ability to make something worthwhile out of nothing made them objects of envy, and they were persecuted anew. They developed a sense of knowing exactly how land would produce and consequently selected the better farm land for their own use in America.

"Our" John had three brothers and six sisters. The farm work kept John outside learning the work that he would be doing the rest of his life. It is not known how much schooling the Troyer children were able to have, although a one room school was in existence thirteen years before John was born. During harvest and spring farm work little schooling for boys was found necessary; and, while the girls had opportunity to attend school, much depended upon the thinking of the parents in regard to the necessity of schooling and whether the public school was the place to send the children. Amish schools were found in areas where German population was skimpy, but since Holmes Co., Ohio was largely Amish and with the public school land donated by the Stutzman family, one can be reasonably certain the school south and east of Walnut Creek, Ohio was a conservative school.

It is not known when John first began to notice a girl by the name of Catherine Shrock. Her grandfather spelled the name Schrock, as did all the children of that family, except Henry, Catherine's father. Henry was married to Barbara Miller, a daughter of John Miller called "Broad Run" Miller and first cousin to Jonathan Miller, John Troyer's grandfather on his mother's side.

Henry Shrock, Catherine's father was born in Somerset Co., Pa. and came to Ohio when about five years of age. Henry was son of Jacob and Anna (Zug) Shrock, who came to Ohio in 1812. Jacob died after March 8, 1832, and his wife Anna died about 1822. Jacob remarried and had three children by his second wife Miss Yutzy.

John and Catherine were married after mid-year 1852 and started housekeeping north of Walnut Creek, Ohio on the Walnut Creek-Trail Road. This tract in Sections 19-20 contained a little over 132 acres and was purchased Oct. 13, 1854, from Michael and Barbara Troyer, John's parents. Most of the land is now owned by the Andrew Byler family. A date of 1872 on one barn indicates John finished the building a year before he left for Indiana. One can find markings of J.T. on a stone in the foundation. The home of John and Catherine was behind the present home of the Bylers and perhaps is yet standing. JVM thinks this farm is the same one occupied by John's great-grandfather John Troyer, who died unexpectedly in 1812.

The land on this farm is gently rolling and broken to the plow with a small house and barn that signified security for the young married couple. Farm work was continual labor in the early days when wooden plows were used. Soon, inventors reinforced the points of the plow with steel. John perhaps did not have an all-steel plow until shortly before leaving for Indiana 23 years later.

In the meantime the family was growing. Their son John died at nine months. There was a diptheria epidemic in the area that year, and unless John was a victim,the family escaped the disease. When we think of the risks involved in the early settlements, the illnesses that were not under control by vaccine or antibiotics, the accidents in building barns and operating steam engines, fractious farm animals, falling tree limbs, and run-a-way horses; we cannot help but wonder how the children survived and the adults lived to raise their children. Many did not, and we frequently see several wives for one husband or several husbands for one wife. It took both parents, or two adults, to cope with life in pioneer communities.

John and Catherine Troyer were caught up in the Amish controversy of 1862, and many families became separated due to the trauma associated with this difficult time. Catherine's father Henry Shrock was one of the appointed trustees for the new church building in Walnut Creek, Ohio. They selected the site and were responsible for raising of funds and the construction of the building. The people met before in private homes, and the last time the congregation met in a home was at the home of Catherine Troyer's parents, the Henry Shrock's, on Nov. 9, 1862. The next meeting was in the new Walnut Creek Amish Meeting-house. The building was of simple design and, apparently, architecture commonly used, because the picture of the early Howard & Miami Church on p.5, is a twin to the structure found in Walnut Creek, Ohio. After the Amish Conference meetings that ended in 1872, the church was called The Walnut Creek Mennonite Church, and the church left the Amish Conference. From Nov. 23, 1854 to Feb. 10, 1873 eleven children were born to Catherine and John. On March 29, 1873, their farm was sold to Christian Stutzman and John Miller, and the John Troyer family moved to Howard County, Ind. with ten children. Their fourth child, John was buried in a hill-side cemetary on the Albert Erb farm, just north of the home place they sold. They had a few misgivings about the sale, but the opportunities were so promising for the growing family.

TROYERS GO TO INDIANA

Relatives and friends gathered to help them pack the wagons, corral the stock, and get ready for the journey to the new farm. John made the purchase of a 200-acre farm from Jacob Troyer before the move so all was in readiness in Indiana, and the problems were not few on the trip there. Noah was but two months of age, Eli was two, and Michael was four years of age when they arrived in Indiana. The other children were 6, 7, 10, 12, 16, 17 and 19 years of age. Henry and Benjamin were a big help with the wagons, and Barbara a ready help with the small children. No doubt the family wagon was a Conestoga, and perhaps another wagon was covered to protect the contents from the weather. While their possessions would not be too great, they no doubt carried seed, implements, fencing and other objects so useful in work on the farrm. We have a picture of the area where they established their first home in Indiana, but the buildings are from a later owner. All that can be seen of the old buildings are indentations in the land indicating the size of former structures which were: a house, a barn and a dug well. The original placement of the house was 24 1/2 rods behind the present buildings. Only part of the old barn foundation remains as it was rebuilt. "The barn stood on the highest point on the land," Larry Marner states, "which was the preferred place in the olden times and was well over 1/4 mile to the road." The picture is of the present buildings on the first farm, just to pinpoint the location. It is one of a series of pictures Larry Marner provided for this book.

John and Catherine joined the Howard-Miami Church for worship in their new church building. They found the Indiana church people friendly due to a steady influx of Ohio membership over a twenty-five year period. It was good to see old friends. Catherine and John lived in Miami Co. for thirteen months before Mary June was born and Catherine died. Then, one month later Mary June died. It was good to have fellowship in a church and comfort from the pastor and fellow members. In the days that lay ahead the family realized how much Catherine contributed to their welfare. Her ten children did her bidding, and all went smoothly. Now, it was nineteen-year-old Barbara who directed the work in the house with the help of Lizzie Anna aged thirteen, Amanda aged eleven, Lucinda aged eight, and Katie age seven. Michael, Eli and Noah were five years, three years and two years old respectively.

The pastor of the Howard-Miami Church found he had more than one tragedy on his hands. One situation was on his mind for some time, that of Simon Kendall's widow, Caroline (Schrock) Kendall, who was first cousin to Catherine (Shrock) Troyer. Simon Kendall, a young man full of strength, a blacksmith by trade, was killed instantly when his forge blew up three months before his twenty-third birthday. Simon left a pregnant wife twenty-three years of age and a daughter fifteen months of age. Now Caroline was twenty-six with a three and a half year old daughter and a son nineteen months of age.

On Dec. 11, 1874, Daniel Miller resolved both their problems as Caroline and John Troyer were married. Caroline's parents had known John Troyer all John's life in Holmes Co., Ohio. Caroline was born in Ohio. Then the J. Benjamin Schrock family moved to Indiana where Caroline grew up and married on April 10, 1870 to Simon Kendall, who died on March 12, 1872. Simon and Caroline's children were: Emma Kendall born on Dec. 26, 1870 and Simon Jr. born Dec. 24, 1872.

Caroline (Schrock) Kendall aged twenty-six was a widow of 2 1/2 years, with children aged four and two when she married John Troyer forty-four years of age. Caroline took on the responsibility of making a home for fourteen people including herself, Emma and Simon. John Troyer's family ranged in age from twenty years to 10 months. The girls ranged in age from nineteen to four years. While it seemed Caroline had good help in the household chores, she also had five children who were five years of age and under with possibility of two in diapers and two more that needed close supervision. Caroline possibly thought the first year would be the most difficult and thus was able to console herself.

No doubt the matter of little Emma and Simon adjusting to the new household was traumatic. They grew from babyhood into a one-on-one relationship with their mother. Their every whimper was attended to at once, and, at the death of Simon Kendall, Sr., they knew but one kind and loving parent, but they did have a full-time mother. Now, for some strange reason, everything was changed. They had the attention of new brothers and sisters, but they were seeing less of their mother. Emma was old enough to notice she was shunted from one new sister to the other. One day Emma looked directly at one of her new sisters and said, "What is mum...doing upstairs....with that man?"

When the second year came along, Henry left home in the spring, so there was one less son to help with the farming of the 200-acre farm. While the boys were all one year older, only the eighteen-year-old was of any major help on the farm, and a new baby boy was adding to the work inside the house. Caroline still had five children aged five years and under, two of these in diapers.

Little did Caroline know that in the next eighteen years she would have but three years when there was no new baby in the house and two years when she had two babies within the year. One year she would have six children under the age of five years. Seven years she would have five children under the age of five years. Five years she would have four children under five years of age. Four years she would have three children under five years, and for two years she had two children under the age of five years.

Five of Caroline's infants died the same day they were born and were likely not full-term pregnancies. In the year 1886 she lost two infants in the same year, one in the spring and one in the fall, just three years after she gave birth to twin boys. How she kept her health and her sanity during this busy time is a mystery to all.

After Benjamin left home in Jan. 1881, John had trouble with the farm work. The boys were not old enough to be the kind of help he needed. Two of the girls left home in 1881, and that year John purchased a farm nearby at about half the acreage of his first farm. He had no trouble in disposing of the old farm selling it to Andrew J. Troyer on June 18, 1881. Whether the crops were reserved or sold with the farm is not known. The moving was easily accomplished since the farms were close together. The prospect of less farm work seemed good to John, who was now in his fifty-first year. A new baby was born that year, but Caroline was a survivor. The farm we know now as the home farm, of course, does not look today as it did then. The inside was beautiful in its simplicity, the necessary furniture simple in design, and not the type of home one sees today. There is something in stark utility that defies description yet completely fulfills the desire for furnishings. They had what was needed.

Besides running her household and caring for her children, Caroline wove her yarn and made the underwear and stockings for this big family. She also made the outer garments, including the boys' pants. One day when John went to town, she asked him to take the children along and get them some clothing for school. After John left, Caroline told a neighbor, "I just don't see how I can do any sewing this fall." Caroline was in prayer all day about the matter. When John came home, he handed her a large bolt of denim, and Caroline went into another room to cry. (MR & JY).

Caroline's oven for baking was a large out-door oven, and she would bake fifteen to eighteen pies on Saturday for the week-end. The Troyer home was always open for guests and they were well-known for their hospitality. The children played in the yard so much the saying was: "No grass grows on the Troyer lawn!"

Caroline did all her washing by hand or with a washboard. On wash days the big copper boilers were heated to the boiling point with lye soap added for the white sheets. Afterwords they were boiled and punched repeatedly with a stick. The ends of the sheets were air-cooled enough to handle and twisted until most of the boiling water was removed. They were dunked in tubs of cold bluing water to make them snowy white. All white garments went through the same process, and the other garments were scrubbed or rubbed on the board. At a later date Caroline got a new wringer which helped so much with the large sheets and the cotton blankets. Caroline made all her own lye soap.

When one considers the needs of this very large family: the untold cuts, scratches and bruises; rounds of measles, whooping cough, mumps, chickenpox and other afflictions that took their toll in that day when children were expected to get contagious diseases, and it was best to get the matter over with before they went to school! No doubt some of the more serious diseases such as scarlet fever and diptheria were problems during that time. Then the more minor afflictions: stomachaches, earaches and headaches were well known to Caroline. Her medicine cabinet (if she had one) no doubt held camphor, witch hazel, Lillies Linament, clove oil, salve and the ever-present asefetida bags. Bread and milk poultices were used for infections, cooked onions placed on the chest for chest colds, wet soda for insect stings.

The house was always filled with activity, baking, sewing, cleaning, washing, and providing meals for the family and any who happened to be lucky enough to happen by at mealtime. How capable Caroline kept her head in all this activity, problems to solve, birthdays to remember, and cakes to bake, is beyond our understanding. We are certain she never had time to sit down and decide if her role in life was as fulfilling as she would want. So many calls: Mam, Momma, grandma. How could she do it all? So many ask, "Did she die young?" Others would gasp, "thirty-one children?" All remark about her goodness, kindness and love to everybody she met.

THE BIG FIRE AT BENJAMIN TROYERS

(At the celebration of her 100th birthday, Jenny Yoder recalled her eighth or ninth birthday party, how much she enjoyed it, and what happened soon after to the Troyer family.)

The weather turned cold, and there was a freezing rain. Jennie's mother Betsy decided to finish her ironing before she went to bed. She put her flat iron on the stove to get it hot for ironing. Then as she finished each piece she hung it on the backs of chairs, or wherever convenient, so the excess moisture would dry. It was late when she was finished ironing, so she did not wait for the fire to die down but went to bed.

Some time later when Ben, Betsy, Laird, Jennie and little Minnie were asleep, a loud explosion from an oil can on the back porch awakened Ben. When he opened the door to the kitchen, flames flew into his face. He slammed the door shut, woke everyone up, and went ouside to ring the big bell. He pulled so hard on the rope, he tore it loose from the bell.

Betsy grabbed Jennie and put her on the cold icy porch barefooted, and she slipped off. Betsy then took the baby bed out of the house and put Jennie in it with the baby. Betsy moved out a chest of drawers that had important papers in it, also a big lounge. She started with a cupboard full of dishes when Ben came to help. As they got to the door, their hair caught fire, so they had to let the cupboard set. Laird found a bucket and was trying to keep the fire off the milk house. People began to come to help. They couldn't save anything more from the house. Jennie and the baby were taken to the neighbors. Later, the family moved in with Benjamin's sister and husband, Amanda and Israel Harris, who lived a bit north of Benjamin's place. The Harris family had two rooms at the back of their house for Ben's family to live in until they could fix or build a house.

The next day after the fire Ananias Schrock, brother to Betsy, came in a road cart to take Jennie to Plevna, Ind. to get clothing for herself and the rest of the family. Friends and neighbors began immediately to sew for the family. The logs of the house continued burning for several days as they were quite large. (JY).

Fire was feared by the farmers in the early days. If the wind was high, all buildings could go before help could arrive, especially if the fire was at night. Families cautioned younger children never to play with the bell or the triangle. It could be rung at meal-time, but, at any other time, the fire bell was a signal of fire or a call for help.

LIFE IN INDIANA

One day Jennie, Laird, and their mother Betsy went to grandmother Mary Schrock's in Plevna, Ind. for the day in a cart with two wheels pulled by a horse. As usual, Laird got into mischief. After a while, someone noticed Laird was not to be found anywhere. Grandmother Schrock had set a turkey on a nest she made behind the outdoor oven because it would be warm for the eggs. While they were looking for Laird, they saw the setting turkey walking around, fussing, and pulling its feathers up the legs. At once grandmother thought she knew where Laird was because she knew when a turkey acted in that manner, something was wrong. They walked around the oven and behind it they found Laird sitting where it was warm. He had chased the turkey off the nest and was sitting on the eggs. Since the space was so small no one could get Laird out. They had to wait until he decided it was time to come out. (J.Y.)

Jenny searched her memory for another story about the Troyer family and remembered the day grandmother Caroline was in the yard when a cross bull was loose. The bull took after Caroline, but she got away before he caught her. It was soon to be the end of the bull. They took him to the butcher shop.

A neighbor boy always marvelled at the long dining room table at the Troyer house and how much food it would take to feed the family. The table was twenty feet long, large by any standard. He remembered the loaves of home-made bread were crusty and warm from the oven. The table also held some home-churned butter, pitchers of milk, huge serving dishes of vegetables, and the platter of meat. There was always a big jelly dish and a pickle dish, "sweets and sours" they called them, and an Amish table often carried seven dishes of each. It is difficult to imagine a table large enough to seat so many people, yet for twenty years fourteen or more people ate at the table. Four years of that time fifteen people ate there. Five years sixteen ate there, and the five remaining years upwards of eighteen, and perhaps more, as the family often invited guests to stay for dinner or a meal. The gardens supplied the fruit and the vegtables, and the farm lot the meat. Chickens, eggs, and milk were produced on the farm.

The Troyer family kept a large store barrel of crackers upstairs. Perhaps it was far enough from reach that the cracker barrel did not suddenly become empty. The boys often scooted down the stairs with full pockets, and George would accomodate his playmates with a trip to the barrel as he helped himself. (H.N.)

Glen Troyer, George Troyer, and Homer North were good friends, and attended Greentown High School. In good weather they rode bicycles; in the winter they drove a horse and buggy. There was one home they found difficult to pass, for a dog always ran out, barked and grabbed at their legs if they were on bicycles. One morning George had about enough of the dog and he said, "If that dog comes out this evening, I'm going to show him something!" So, in the evening Homer and Glen kept back a bit to allow George to meet the dog. The dog came out as usual and lunged at George, who gave him a kick so hard that George landed in a ditch on the other side of the road. His dinner pail was all shook up. The dog was scared but cured and went into the house with the little girl who came out to get him. (H.N.)

The three boys had many adventures. Glen, George and Homer would hunt bumble bee nests and use shingles to stir them up. For protection they wore their hats, but in a flurry of excitement when a hat fell off and one lost a paddle, he was in for it; the bees went wild. (H.N.)

On a corner east of the Troyer farm was a blacksmith shop where jimson weeds grew around the building. The boys looked around inside the shop until they found a suitable bit of iron and sawed some teeth into the iron. With the crudely made instrument, they became lumberjacks as they cut down the jimson trees of the forest. (H.N.)

John Troyer and John Miller operated a saw mill just across the road from the Troyer farm. The boys liked to play over there for several reasons. One reason was that they wanted to hear John Miller talk to himself and figure the cost of a job out loud without the aid of a pencil or paper. A lot of business was carried on in this saw mill, and as John usually walked to the mill from his home about 1/2 mile east of the saw mill, the people could hear him coming and going to work. The second reason was the huge piles of sawdust where the boys dug tunnels until they stopped to rest. (H.N.)

When George was in high school he was the center on the Greentown football team. He was straight, tall and strong. The class referred to him as the "Strait of Gibralter". About all of the Troyer boys had nicknames while growing up. This matter of nicknames was referred to at one reunion many years ago when apparently no one copied all the names down. Ellsworth was nicknamed Grasshopper; Benjamin was called Ben; Michael, Mick; Edward, Ed; Joseph, Joe; Nathaniel, Sam; and Emanuel, Man; We are unable to find the nicknames given by the brothers for Henry, Eli, Noah and Harve. Perhaps it was the younger brothers that indulged in such foolishness. They also took the Amish perogative to use an initial of their father's name for a middle initial. Not all the boys followed through with this. Ellsworth later added A. for his middle initial, as he was in the EATing business in the grocery store. Joseph used an E.; Nathaniel, an O.; George, a D.; and Michael, a K. Eli, and Noah, possibly, took no middle initial. The following used the J.: Harve; Benjamin; Henry; Edward; and Emanuel.

The young Troyers enjoyed life. When Ira Yoder and Jennie Troyer were young people they often went with Emanuel and Mazie Kendall on double dates before they were married. Each couple had a horse and buggy. On one occasion, Emanuel had a young horse full of life. He was driving behind Ira's buggy, when the horse pulling Emanuel's buggy became unmanageable. Emanuel called for Ira to turn out, but before Ira could respond, Emanuel's horse was going around, and one buggy wheel of Emanuel's buggy went up and over one of Ira's buggy wheels. No one was hurt. The horse stopped. The men took the ladies back to the house. Then Emanuel said, "Come Ira, let's go for a ride." So they drove the fractious horse around the square mile as fast as the horse would go and did not let her slack up until they got back to the house. After that the horse was very dependable. (JY)

THE VISIT

Maynona Roth says, "Catherine's children had a close relationship with Caroline and so really enjoyed visiting at the home farm."

One visit was special because it was accomplished by riding on the Big Iron Horse which made travel more convenient for the Ohio children and grandchildren.

One morning in Ohio John Hershberger hitched up the horse and piled the luggage in the back of the spring wagon. Walter and Callie got in, inching into a far corner, and waited for Lloyd and John to squeeze in. Lucinda and Kate got in and brought with them a good-sized lunch box for the trip. We then took off for Barrs Mills and the train stop. We were so excited about going to the grandparents on a train, we didn't think of anything else. When we got to the station, we waited patiently while the conductor checked our tickets before we could climb the slippery steps and entrance, that clanged when we walked across it. So many red plush seats! In the car Katie and Lucinda took facing seats, so we could all sit together for our lunch. We could use the empty seats too, so each one had a window. We kept our eyes glued to the window, first to wave to dad as he left for home, then to see the amazing sights we had never seen before, such as crossings where the bell kept ringing until the train had crossed. We saw wagons and people just waiting for us to be gone. We saw woods and water. Then we saw farm animals and farms until we were called for lunch from the big box. Then it was back to the window, the water-fountain and the necessary room, almost in that order.

When we got to Kokomo, Ind., an uncle was there to meet us, and we were off to the farm where we spent one to two weeks of glorious fun. We had such a good time. Soon it was time to go home, so we packed up and rode to the train. Good-byes are very hard. We didn't realize we lived so far away. (W.H.)

LIFE IN OHIO

John and Oliver were glad to welcome the weary travellers home. The vacation had been so much fun, yet the children were happy to be at home once more. The John Hershberger family had moved into their new family home shortly before the trip. It was a nice arrangement having family close at hand for harvest time and visiting. The new home was just up a steep hill from a landmark known as the 8-cornered barn and farm. The women discussed harvest plans and what they would prepare together. While this arrangement gave each one two days work, it was an easier job when shared.

Kate died the first year Walter was in school. Walter's sister Minerva was the one to take over and be a big help for some years. Walter's brother Monroe was his teacher the 7th & 8th grades. Walter finished high school in Walnut Creek, Ohio and went on to Kent University and Ohio State University. Walter then came back home and taught in Pleasant Valley school where he had started his first grade. (WH)

SOME WENT TO MICHIGAN

Laird Troyer, son of Benjamin Troyer, and grandson of "our" John Troyer, was the first of our Troyer branch to migrate to Michigan and was engaged in teaching north of Fairview, Mich. area in 1900.

In the latter part of the 18th century a lumbering co. harvested timber in the area of the present community of Fairview, Mich. The lumbering company decided to dispose of the worked over land at a low price for homesteading. The sales fliers reached into Ohio, Ill., and Indiana and were of considerable interest to some of the members in the Howard-Miami Church near Kokomo, Ind. Harve Troyer, an uncle of Laird Troyer, either accompanied or followed Laird Troyer to Michigan and settled on a farm 2 1/2 miles north of the area later occupied by the Fairview community in Michigan.

Five families from the Howard-Miami Church started out for Michigan on Apr. 3, 1901 and drove by wagon through almost impossible trails and deep snow drifts to Michigan. They were listed as first settlers by the name of Yoder, Stutzman, Kauffman, Klinglesmith and a second Yoder family. These five couples did not long remain in the area and moved elsewhere in the state. Harve Troyer arrived sometime after April 1, 1901.

Many people from various places were moving into the Fairview settlement. The Harve Troyer family lived in the area just three years and then returned to the Howard-Miami area. Four years later (1908) they returned to Michigan and later returned the second time to the Howard-Miami Church district (by 1916 or before).

Laird Troyer came to the Howard-Miami Church area for summer vacation and contacted his uncle Ellsworth Troyer about going back with him to Michigan, and he assured Ellsworth he would surely be able to find a teaching position there. Ellsworth was home from Elkhart Institute (now Goshen College) and Laird, Ellsworth, and a friend, Levi King, began discussing their future plans. From this discussion, it became evident Ellsworth could get a school in Michigan if he was interested. The three young men decided to make a trip north.

The trio planned to leave early in August and travel north as inexpensibly as they were able; so they decided to travel a la R.V. (1800's style.) They purchased a horse named Molly and a one-seated spring wagon with an open body. They made a frame for the top of the wagon simulated after the Conestogas their ancestors used to travel west. They purchased the heaviest muslin they could buy to protect themselves from the weather. When the wagon was ready to travel they packed clothing and cooking utensils, and Caroline was very helpful in securing other items they would need along the way. She fried some young chickens, made sandwiches, and gave them a few young friers for later. One of the roosters they kept as a pet. He rode on the seat or sat on the dash board and was secured with a strong cord to the wagon. They bid joyful goodbyes and left Kokomo, Ind. early in the morning around the first of August. They were travelling without the aid of a road map, as none were available, and used instead a railroad map to plan their itinerary. Their route took them through Wabash, Ind., and there they ran into heavy rain that was soon to deluge the inside of their wagon. They purchased some oilcloth. That corrected the problem. Near the end of the day they came to the home of a friend, and when they were offered a chance to sleep inside a home, they couldn't turn the offer down.

They started out very well the second day and by evening, lo and behold, they were at the door of Samuel Mast in Shipshewanna, Ind. Mrs. Mast was Ellsworth Troyer's sister Barbara. The boys had planned their trip quite well for again they had comfortable lodging.

They reluctantly left the comfort of an established home the third day. They were now on their own. Cooking and housekeeping would be added to the list of what-to-do today. At night they emptied the wagon and stored all the baggage underneath and used the wagon bed for sleeping. For the three of them it was a tight fit unless one slept in the opposite direction. This became a part of their routine.

They greatly enjoyed the beautiful scenery, and late on Sunday afternoon they made an early stop. All felt the need of a good rest. They crossed a river and parked under a large shade tree. They unhitched the horse, unloaded the wagon, and were ready for the night. When the sun went down, they no sooner relaxed and stretched weary bodies into the confines of the wagon bed, when they were invaded by about a million mosquitoes. It was poor foresight on their part. Levi and Ellsworth got out of the wagon and built a smudge fire at the back of the wagon. The smoke removed the mosquitoes, but the smoke remained, and Levi and Ellsworth had all the brunt of the smoke at their end of the wagon, while Laird, the odd man on, held his head out the front of the wagon smiffing the pure night air. They were quite eager to leave the area on Monday morning.

There were some problems on the way. Levi contacted poison ivy. This called for a trip to a Drug Store. Some of the food spoiled due to the hot weather, and it was necessary to stop frequently to purchase food. They fared rather well except for a town named Algers where little food could be obtained. They had no bread and were many miles from a grocery store. Then they hit a winding road through the pines and travelled longer than they expeted to find a place for the night. They finally stopped near a cabin. Levi and Laird went for water while Ellsworth unhitched the horse and unloaded the wagon for the night. It was quite a long time before Laird and Levi returned saying, "A bear has been seen roaming about the woods and the man of the house invited us to stay inside his cabin." The weary travellers hitched the horse and loaded the wagon in a hurry. It was good to spend another night inside a home.

It was about noon several days later when they arrived at Mio, Mich. They no longer needed the morning alarm clock. So the pet rooster was cooked near the bridge on the banks of the Au Sable River. While they were eating, a member of the school board of Big Creek and Mentor Townships came by and offered Ellsworth a job, and Ellsworth accepted the offer.

They soon made a trip 2 1/2 miles north of the present community of Fairview, Mich., where Ellsworth's brother Harve lived on a farm known as the Jackson Farm. They had much fun relating their trip through Lansing, Owosso, Saginaw, Bay City Standish, Alger, West Branch, Roscommons, Mio and Fairview. It was a 400-mile trip in 14 days, an adventure they never forgot.

Levi took a job as cook in a lumber camp but soon decided to return to Indiana. After school Laird and Ellsworth returned to Indiana for the summer taking a boat from Au Sable to Toledo, Ohio and from there by train.

In the years 1902, 1903 and 1904 Ellsworth Troyer was engaged in teaching school at the Gusler School District and in South Fairview School. Laird taught most of the time in the North Fairview School. Laird was married in 1902 and was not taking the customary trip to Kokomo, Ind. each summer after that time.

Ellsworth continued his bachelor ways until April 30, 1904, when he and Elva Dean Schrock were the first couple married in the new Fairview Mennonite Church before it was dedicated on May 22, 1904.

The young people of the Gusler and Fairview communities met once a week at the Gysler School for hymn sings, and later a Sunday School was started in the fall of 1903. The Mennonite Church was organized in the spring of 1904, and Ellsworth Troyer was one of the thirty-five charter members of the Fairview Mennonite Church. They attended this church after the wedding in 1904.

Laird J. Troyer and Ellsworth Troyer erected the first business building in Fairview, Mich. in August of 1904. In 1907, Ellsworth became postmaster and moved the post office from one and one-half miles north of Fairview to the business building in Fairview, Mich. Here he operated a grocery store until 1919 when the family moved to Ind.

Laird Troyer was elected County Clerk and Register of Deeds, and he moved to Mio, Michigan. He sold his interest in the building to Ellsworth. (Laird was the only early Troyer pioneer in Mich. who spent his lifetime in that state.)

There were others who went to Michigan. Ira and Jenny (Troyer) Yoder, daughter of Benjamin Troyer, with Joseph and Emma (Kendall) Horner decided to go to Michigan in 1903. They selected the western side of the state in Manistee Co. near the village of Chief Lake where Joseph Horner, who formerly served as minister in the Howard-Miami Mennonite Church in Kokomo, Ind., now accepted a call to the Manistee Co. Church. Emma wasn't happy about the move to Michigan, but she appreciated the company of Ira and Jenny.

Ira Yoder purchased a farm with the crops on it. They raised all kinds of beans, pickles and potatoes. It was rocky land, and all the rocks had to be cleared in order to farm. The cottage was close to the lake, and they did a lot of fishing. Fishing was easy in Michigan, for in a short time one could have a huge bucket of fish. Then it often took until late at night to clean the fish. The extra fish were salted down for later use. The woods around the cabin were filled with mushrooms and many times Jennie salted them down. Ira Yoders remained in the Chief Lake area of Michigan for four years before returning home, and three years later Joseph and Emma Horner returned to Howard Co. Ind.

Other families were lured to Michigan because of the cheap land. Israel and Amanda (Troyer) Harris family, Noah Schrocks, Dave Sommers, Sam, Joe and Altine Schrock families found their way north. The country is so beautiful, but some crops did not do as well, and there were many hardships that caused some to return to Indiana.

THEY WENT TO MONTANA

Nathaniel Troyer heard of the Gaston Project for homesteading, and this interested him very much. It was about 1909-1910, when he and several other families packed up and moved to the state of Montana. This trip was by train and C. Ward says he doesn't remember much about it as he was just three years old at the time.

Nathaniel and family settled in the foothills of the Crazy Mountains in Montana. The "Old Timers" gave them this name due to the constant ever-changing color from one moment to the next and at any time of day. The land Nathaniel staked out was south of the mountains, and the house was on a hillside near one corner of the plot.

This mountainous area had other peculiarities. The climate was cold, and summer was a short season. It was not unusual to see snow in August before the oats were ripe with the cold season already setting in for winter. The creature population was prolific. There were skunks, rattlesnakes, prairie chickens, sage hens, deer, antelope and coyotes. The coyotes were constantly around yowling. A child growing up with that sort of thing would remember a constant eerie feeling of wondering if the creatures might be anticipating a human meal. Sometimes while driving a buckboard home at night Nathaniel would return the coyote howl. That made them move closer to the horse and wagon. This upset Pearl so much she insisted he stop, for the thought of the coyotes so very near was more than she could bear.

One of the favorite pastimes for C. Ward and Weir was watching the flocks of sheep going by the house window as the shepherds brought them down from their summer feeding place up in the high meadow or hills. "We watched this for hours at a time", says C. Ward. They also enjoyed watching a working sheep dog bring the sheep down the mountains. Then the shepherds' wagon came rolling along behind the sheep led by a black ram or goat.

Although Nathaniel made every effort, it was not possible to eke out a living in the arid, rocky soil. The soil contained alkali, and it was hard to raise a good crop. They raised all their own vegtables, and the garden was irrigated due to the constant lack of rainfall. It was discouraging after all the watering to see marauding animals destroy so much garden produce.

Nathaniel quit gardening and began work as a carpenter. The family moved into Big Timber, Mont., where Nathaniel found work. The public school was just across the road from the family home, and it was quite convenient for them. It was not long until the family moved back to Indiana.

GEORGE WENT TO INDIA, PUERTO RICO, AND ILLINOIS

George D. Troyer attended Goshen College and graduated from Marion College, Marion, Indiana. He taught grade school for two years in Howard Co., Ind., then taught High School in Bristol and Wakarusa, Ind. from 1914-1916. He studied medicine at Chicago Medical School, Chicago, Ill. and graduated in 1922. George was a specialist in Opthalmology dealing with eye medicine and surgery. He and Kathryn Sommers were the first couple to be married in the Howard-Miami Mennonite Church in 1914. George and the family went to India under the Elkhart Board of Missions, where he practiced eye medicine for thirteen years. While in India, George was medical director of the Dhamtari Christian Hospital.

In the fall of 1936, George and family returned to Fisher, Ill. where he practiced medicine for eight years. In 1944, under the Mennonite Central Committee of Akron, Pa., they were sent to Puerto Rico, for a term of twenty-five years. For many years George was resident agent in Puerto Rico for the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities of Elkhart, Ind. When they again returned to the states, they celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary the Howard-Miami Church cabin in 1964. The family and a large number of friends gathered to wish them well. George and his wife retired and made their home in Goshen, Indiana.

THEY SCATTERED

John's children left home in a gradual and orderly fashion. The youngest boy to leave was Eli. Michael was twenty-six before he left the homeplace, and he was much needed in the farming operation. As a whole, the girls left home earlier than the boys. The youngest girl to leave home was Amanda, with Callie, Lizzie and Emma leaving at the same age. Lucinda remained at home longer than the other girls, and her help was needed in the home.

A few went to Ohio. Catherine's children felt Ohio was home to them and some were anxious to get in touch with old acquaintances. Henry, Lucinda, Katie and Michael found their homes in Ohio. The majority remained around Kokomo, Ind., and a few ventured elsewhere.

Joseph Troyer lived close to the homeplace in the little house on the corner. Little Maynona grew up loving her grandparents and wanting to be close to them.

DEATH OF A PATRIARCH

We quote from his obituary:

> "Brother Troyer united with the Amish Church in his early life and lived a consistent life until death. The family lost a loving father, and the church a wise counsellor. He leaves a wife, eighteen children, two stepchildren, sixty grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren, three brothers, a sister and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his departure, but their loss is his eternal gain."

"Mennonite Church History of Howard-Miami Co., Indiana." published in 1916, speaks of John:
He had a large family, and at one time his family was the largest around here. Besides his own family there were other people staying there most of the time, and naturally it took a good deal to provide for this large household."

John Troyer died Mar. 5, 1912. He was eighty-one years of age and had lived a full life. On the day of his funeral a large number of people gathered to honor him. His life touched so many people, and he left this mortal earth for the home he had spoken about to his large family. He left a Christian witness in the hearts and minds of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

THE HOMEPLACE

Caroline did not return to an empty house. Callie and Dan Hershberger moved in to keep her company and remained there until Callie's death in the fall of 1917. It was then that Caroline decided to remodel the house and add a porch. At this time the house was divided into two living quarters. Then Joseph Troyer and his family moved in to be with John's widow.

Maynona says that Grandma Caroline (or Mam as she was called by the grandchildren) was a good story teller. Maynona often sat at Caroline's feet and listened to her stories (which, unfortunately, she now cannot recall). Maynona loved her grandmother Caroline very much and ofen dusted the curlie-cues on Grandma's sewing machine. Caroline paid her 5 cents for this job.

There was a log cabin behind the homeplace. This is where Joe's family lived each summer so the main house could be kept clean. The cabin had a large kitchen, a large living room with a fireplace (that Joes used for a dining room), and a very large room upstairs. At one time Barbara (Miller) Troyer ("Our" John's mother) lived there. It is not remembered when she came to live in Indiana from her home in Ohio. Michael Troyer died in 1855, and Barbara remarried to Benjamin Gerber. Whether this is the son of Abrabham Gerber of Shanesville, Ohio (who died in 1867) is not known. Possibly after the death of her second husband she decided to see Indiana and remained in the log house until her death in 1889. Maynona remembers the stories of her pipe and how Barbara liked to sit in front of the fireplace and smoke. Jennie recalled the time Barbara carried a canary in a cage across the plowed field to the main house. For what reason this trip was made is not known. Perhaps Barbara required a sitter for her bird. See p.24 .

The picture of the remains of the log house does not do it justice. Maynona took the picture with the camera she won selling Rosebud Salve. The building on the left was a spring house which was always so nice and cool. The windmill can be seen in the center of the picture. When Nathaniel moved to the homeplace, he tore the log cabin down. Maynona concedes it was possibly time for it to go. This was of course after Caroline's death.

THE PASSING OF "MAM"

We quote from her obituary:

> "...Caroline was converted and united with the Mennonite Church in youth. She remained faithful until death and was known as a woman of faithfulness, wisdom and loyalty to the church. She left two sisters, Barbara Mast and Sarah Zook, eleven children, and six stepchildren, ninety-one grand and step-grandchildren and many relatives and friends."

Caroline suffered from diabetes in her later years and died following a stroke. Most mothers have charge of a family that journeys from childhood to youth in a gradual manner. Caroline had to handle all ages at once and from the beginning of her marriage. She was patient, kind, loving and gentle enough for her stepchildren and her own children to revere her. The story of her life affirms her place in the hearts of those who never had an opportunity to know her.

Both John and the Schrock cousins left their descendants with a goodly heritage. All thirty-one of these children descend from the Martyr Hans Zaug, Christian Lang and his wife Barbara Spitler, John Schrock the immigrant, and Michael Troyer, Sr. See Family Chart on pages 3,4.

Caroline's success as a stepmother was due possibly to the fact she was well-known to the children and a relative. The stepchildren visited her often and brought their families home with them. Caroline came into the home at a time of need, and she experienced tragedy herself. She was acquainted with bereavement, and adjustment ot the shock of losing a loved one. Caroline was young and a very capable person, willing to accept what life offered her without complaint. She was able to make a satisfactory adjustment and hold the family together. We treasure her memory.

The decision to go to Canada was not an easy one to make for John and Christian, sons of Michael Troyer, Sr. Perhaps if we turn back the years and look at just what happened to them while residents in the United States, we might have a new perspective of the events that led to their decision.

When John and Christian were born, the seeds of war were sown in the minds of many colonists. When they were two and four years of age, and completely unaware of what was going on, their parents fled the Northkill in the wake of the massacre of the Hochstedler family. When they were eight and ten years of age, the French and Indian War ended, and the climate for a Revolution was brewing. When they were eleven and thirteen years of age, English soldiers shot a group of raw, unarmed soldiers of the colony, thus starting the Revolutionary War. When they were twenty-two and twenty-four, Philadelphia was in the hands of the English, and the war was at its height. When they were in their mid-twenties the Tories incited the Indians against the settlers. One year before the Constitution was ratified there was a depression with bankruptcy impending, and Shay's Rebellion was in progress. In short, in no period in their lives did they experience a much-needed peace.

John and Christian were parents, each the father of two living children, when the trip to Canada was contemplated. First, they made a preliminary trip to secure a homestead site and ready a cabin for the family if conditions were such the move seemed feasible. With the two brothers was David Holly (most likely a grandson of Andreas Holly and married to Catherine King). John and Christian were in their mid-thirties and David was about twenty-six when this trip was made to scout Canada for settlement. In the early days of 1788, the waterways were their roads as they provided less hindrance to travel.

The family in Pennsylvania waited for the return of the three men. Barbara, wife of Christian, was expecting their third child, and no doubt the trip to Canada gave her some uneasy moments. The Troyer family were a close-knit group, and she felt secure in the home of Michael Troyer, Sr., where she could call on any of them for extra help when needed. Magdalena was eight and already a real help to her mother. David was four and lively enough to help the long days pass quickly. Barbara knew that John and Christian really had no choice. She was perhaps fearful of taking an infant into the wilderness. They would be leaving friends and relatives, a known for an unknown land, a home in community for one in isolation. While the two families had each other in case of real need, there were Indians, possibly hostile, plus unknown conditions inherent in northern climate. How cold the winter? How warm the summer? But then if they could not realize the fruits of their labors, live in safety and comfort with family and friends, and rear their children with dignity and in peace--they had no choice!

The joyous news of the land they found in Canada went untold for a time after they returned to Pa. Christian was the father of a baby girl, and his wife Barbara was dead, presumedly in childbirth. Whether Christian suffered the same loss of home and lands that happened to John is not known. It is not without possibility that Christian was visited by the Patriots while he was in Canada and his land confiscated. The resulting excitement and turmoil may have contributed to the untimely death of Barbara. We have no record if the men came home before or after the funeral.

Amish funerals were very simple. There was a wake the night before the funeral, with relatives and family friends sitting up for the night with the body which was not embalmed. The coffin was rough-hewn, without frills. The family gathered quietly. A sermon was preached, and the body was lowered into the naked earth of the family plot.

Shortly thereafter the men prepared for the trip to Canada. The distance was in the neighborhood of 500 miles. Conestoga wagons were used by the Troyers for the hauling of implements, household items, utensils and food. It took no less than four strong horses to draw the laden freight. Whether the Troyers joined with other families heading north, or whether Michael and Christian went along with livestock is not known. There is some oral history concerning the Michael Troyer, Sr. family moving to Canada, but it seems rather unlikely as lands and homes were confiscated by the Patroits if they were vacated for a time. If they accompanied the men on the trip, Christian and Michael, Sr., no doubt, returned to Pennsylvania soon. This may be one of the times when Christian made a trip to and from Canada, encouraging the settlement of Pennsylvanians in Canada. The first names on Christian's list of immigrants were himself, his brother John, David Holly, Sr., and David Holly, Jr.

John, no doubt, chose the route most often traveled to Canada, up the Sesquehanna River, across the Finger Lake region in New York to below present Buffalo, New York, and into Canada.

They gradually eased south until they could follow the north shore of Long Point Bay of Lake Erie. Finally, they came to a dip in the trail. They turned down a steep slope running to the bay area, and they were there. This is the place where John planned to build his house, block-house, and barn, plant his orchards, and make his garden. They were tired from their journey, and the cabin looked good to them. The house would come later.

John had some difficulty in obtaining a clear title to the Long Point property. Several petitions were made in this regard, and his persistance paid off. He was able to keep the major portion of his holdings at Troyer Flats, Walsingham Twsp., Norfolk Co., Ontario, Canada.

When John first came into the Troyer Flats area, Indians roamed the forests. The first building John erected on his chosen site was a block-house for protection from Indian attack. He built a strong fort, but it was never needed because in Canada the unspoiled aborigines, as they were called, were friendly.

The John Troyer family lived an isolated life at Long Point, but new settlers acquired land nearby, and it was good to exchange conversation with the neighbors. John was ready to lend a hand with the construction of a cabin, to "witch" a well, and to share his garden produce, fruit from his orchard, plants, and trees, so necessary in the wilderness. John was known as Doctor Troyer, a kindly man who was recognized, as he aged, by his flowing white beard. His skill with herbal medicine and perhaps the setting of bones was often needed in those days. John was not certified as a Dr. in Norfolk, Ontario, because laws and regulations were unknown when he settled there. Since he was the first practitioner in Norfolk Co. he earned a courtesy title of Dr. Troyer. He was a talented man: a naturalist and a crack shot with a flint-lock rifle. He kept a gun collection to hunt food for the family table.

Sophronia died in 1821, and was buried in the family plot at Troyer Flats. After her death John lived alone in his house except for the visits of his children and grandchildren, which occurred frequently. As he withdrew from his neighbors in solitude, one of his neighbors was especially antagonistic toward him because he mentioned he was of the opinion she was a witch. His fantasies turned to fact in his mind, and he built a witch trap which he kept at the foot of his bed in order to protect himself while asleep. It was, in fact, a bear trap bolted to the floor that he set each night before retiring. John Troyer lived a lifetime serving others in kindness, helpfulness, and mercy. It is unfitting for him to be remembered as a "witch" doctor.

We have no record of the daughter Barbara or her family. Michael, son of John Troyer, lived close to his father and built his home on the family land. Michael ran a cider mill, used his father's forge, and operated a mill used for grist and flour. This was known in later years as the "Troyer Ryerse" grist mill.

John's son Michael married twice, (1) Mary Holly, and in later life, (2) Elizabeth Burgher. They were parents of nine children: four boys and five girls. Three of Michael's sons migrated to the U.S. A grandchild, Joseph, and his sister Mary lived in Chicago during the great fire of Oct. 8 and 9 in 1871. They rescued among their possessions John's flint-lock rifle and the family Bible, the second such Bible containing Troyer family history. A Cornelius Troyer is identified as a son who migrated to Illinois (location not found) and there was a John Troyer who migrated to Annawan, Ill.

John, Sophronia, Michael and his wife Mary are buried in the family burying ground at Troyer Flats, Ontario, Canada. The stones in the burial plot are found in disrepair. There are also stones for two granddaughters by the name of Mary and for an unidentified David. Michael son of John was a Baptist minister.

Dr. John Troyer, the so-called "Witch" Dr., is honored in the Eva Brook Donley Museum at Simcoe, Ontario, Can. Among items on display are the following: wood samples from the block-house, a cut from a tree twenty-eight inches in width, a door to the block-house with handmade iron nails, the "witch" trap, and John's flint-lock rifle sixty inches in length (with octagonal barrel and a ram rod for loading). The rest of his gun collection was perhaps given to family members. This son of Michael Troyer, Sr., made a place for himself and his family in the Canadian woods. The Canadian people have not forgotten his contribution to the well-being of early immigrants, his loving concern for the health of his neighbors, and his neighborliness that promoted the growth of population to Norfolk Co., Ontario, Canada.

When Christian migrated to Canada with his brother John and David Holly, he and the others erected a dwelling at Sugar Loaf west of Port Eve, Ontario, Canada. He then petitioned for land at Long Point near the land John occupied in 1789. After his second marriage in 1790 to Elizabeth Becker (or Baer), he moved his three children and wife to Ontario, Canada, and they resided at Sugar Loaf about a year before moving to Long Point. Then, later in 1804, when the fourth child Jacob was born, the family was residing at Edgeley, Ontario, in the Twsp. of Vaughan. Christian was an unordained Mennonite minister in the Edgeley Mennonite Church. He spent many years of his life encouraging the settlers in Pennsylvania to migrate to Canada and succeeded in bringing to Ontario, Canada thirty-five families in twelve years. Some of the names are familiar. Among them are the following: Samuel Miller; John Troyer; John Holly; David Holly, Sr.; David Holly, Jr.; John Horner; and Christian Troyer. Christian led a very active life in Canada. He was father of six children: Magdalene, David and Maria (b. in the U.S.) and Jacob, Catherine, and Christian (b. in Ontario, Canada.)

Between the years 1814 and 1816, Christian and his wife Catherine Troyer and their son David and his family migrated to Ohio, settling about half-way between Charm and Walnut Creek, Ohio. Christian was now nearly sixty years of age, and Elizabeth was fifty-four. David and his wife were about thirty years of age, and they brought five children with them, Four more children were born in Ohio.

Christian died on July 20, 1839. He and his second wife are buried on the family farm plot, as are some of their children. Christian is honored in the Black Creek Pioneer Village, near Toronto, Canada, where a church he helped build in Edgeley, Ontario, Canada was first constructed. Here you will find Conestoga wagons, bank barns representative of the barns erected by the settlers from Pennsylvania, and the red, white, and blue wagons that safely transported them to Ontario, Canada.

The round barn at Dufferin and Finch in Vaughn Twsp. was built by Samuel Troyer, grandson of Christian Troyer. It has now been moved and preserved at the Milton Agricultural Museum at Milton, Ontario. You can see this barn from the 401 Hwy. at Milton, Ontario.

Christian Troyer helped to build this meeting house below. This Mennonite Meeting Hall was built in its original setting at Edgeley, Ontario (now Vaughan, Ontario). The building has been moved to the Black Creek Pioneer Village and preserved in its entirety. It is now located in the Village about four miles from the original site. The Edgeley Mennonite Meeting House built in 1824 is the oldest log meeting house in Ontario and still contains all of its original furnishings. Regular services were held in this building until early in the 20th century. The location of this meeting house in the Black Creek Pioneer Village is no. 35 on the map and found in the south east quarter of the complex.

As you pass the toll gate at the entrance to Black Creek Pioneer Village you immediately enter a farm settlement, typical of communities in southern Ontario prior to the Confederation. Of thirty buildings, there are five on their original sites and twenty-five others which have been carefully moved, restored and furnished to show the progress of a village to 1867. The earliest building is the Dalziel Barn built in 1809, an outstanding example of Pennsylvania German architecture in Ontario. It is now a museum containing exhibits of a sugar bush, stoves, flax processing, agricultural equipment, and also the largest collection of 19th century toys in Canada.

THE HORNER FAMILY

Research into our immediate Horner family has yielded little information. Jacob and Elizabeth (Neff) Horner were the grandparents of our grandfather, Joseph S. Horner. They lived in Tuscarawas Co., Ohio sometime in the late 1700's and early 1800's. No birth or death dates are known.

Jacob and Elizabeth had ten children. Their third child was Gabriel Horner who found his way to the Peru, Ind. area. Gabriel married Isabell Schrock and they had 11 children, our grandfather was the third child.

Gabriel and Isabell (Schrock) Horner lived in a area several miles northeast of Peru, Ind. This area was a thriving Mennonite Community in the mid 1850's, established before the Mennonite Community now referred to as Howard-Miami. The Peru Mennonite Community failed to prosper and died out during the late 1800's.

Joseph S. Horner traveled to Colorado sometime during the period of time of 1884 to 1888 and is supposed to have homesteaded, with a partner, some acerage in northeastern Colorado. Recently 5 eastern counties of Colorado were researched and failed to find any evidence of the location of the homestead.

This time in Colorado for Joseph S. Horner appeared to be a "touchy issue" in the family in later years, and Joseph S. was told not to speak of this period of time.

Joseph S. Horner was back in Miami Co., Ind. sometime during 1888 and was married in Dec. 1889 to Emma Kendall. Emma was the daughter of Simon and Caroline (Schrock) Kendall.

Joseph S. Horner was ordained a minister in the Howard-Miami Mennonite Church that same year, 1889, an assignment he faithfully kept till his death in 1945.

In 1903 Joseph S. and Emma Horner and family moved to Manistee Co., Mich. and lived there for 7 years. During this time in Mich. Joseph S. served as minister for the newly-formed Mennonite Church near Chief Lake in Manistee Co.

The years in Mich. were difficult for the family. In addition to serving as a minister, Joseph also worked his small farm acreage and worked in a logging camp. The latter work often took him from home for a week at a time.

Joseph S. continued to work with the soil and to serve the local Howard-Miami Mennonite Church as minister. JJH

THE KANDEL-KENDALL FAMILY

So far as we know, the ancestor of this family is Peter Kendell. The majority of the second generation of this family uses the name Kendall; only one son and his descendants took the name Kandel. There are several stories about how the difference in name took place for this family. One story is that the tax assessors used the name Kandel; the other is the story that Jonathon was raised by an Amish family that used the Kandel spelling.

Peter Kendall followed his father-in-law to Ohio. John Drushel migrated from Somerset Twp., Somerset Co., Pa. in 1805 to become a pioneer in Berlin Twp. Ohio, and he accumulated a large amount of land. Peter and his wife Elizabeth came to Ohio in 1815 with three small children. Peter settled near his father-in-law and lived all his lifetime south of Berlin, Ohio. Peter Kendall was b. about 1783, exact place unknown, but he came from the Somerset Co., Pa. to Ohio, and d. in 1849. The family was O.O. Amish. There were six children born to this family and son John Kendall b. about 1812 married Elizabeth Troyer 800. Very little is known about this family. Another son Jonathon had a son Abraham, who had descendants marry into the Troyer family relationship through Joseph, who had a grandson Daniel marry Alma Sommers 140, and through Eli's son John Kandel who married Verba Gerber as second wife, 158.

Joseph son of Peter Kendall had a daughter Mary marry into the Troyer relationship when she married Adam Troyer, a first cousin to "our" John. Simon Kendall son of Joseph was the first husband of our Caroline Schrock Kendall Troyer, who brought into the family Emma and Simon Kendall Jr. In five generations of Caroline's Schrock ancestry there were eleven Troyer marriages, and of course other intermarriages have occurred in later generations. The Kandell-Kendall genealogy is found in section marked 900.

THE MILLER FAMILY I

(We have two early Miller families in our ancestry, and, to distinguish between the two, we will separate them into Miller Family I and Miller Family II.)

Our earliest Miller ancestor in this country, so far as we know, was John Miller, or Hannes Miller. He became known as "Indian" John, or "Wounded" John in history as his hand was wounded at the time the Indians, or renegades, aimed for his heart. John was chopping wood for the morning fire at the time, and his hand intercepted the powder charge. The attackers then left the area, and John went into his cabin and closed the door. Inside the cabin were his wife Magdalena and four children: Jacob; John; Christian; and Peter (who was about one year of age).

John Miller the immigrant came on the Ship Phoenix in 1749 and made his way to the Northkill where land was newly opened for many Amish immigrants seeking land at a reasonable price. The Miller family lived near the Hochstetler farm and John saw the Indians leaving the scene of the massacre. Pioneering was full of danger, and the settlers of the area decided it was time to find land in a more civilized area. Our ancestors from this family are John's children: Peter; John; and a later daughter Barbara.

John II born about 1754 married Fanny Yoder and had four children that married into our relationship: Jacob Miller born

Dec. 14 1784 married Veronica Troyer 896; David Miller born Oct. 2 1779 married Elizabeth Troyer 899; Daniel Miller born 1773 married Magdalena Troyer 491; Barbara Miller (birthdate unknown) married Jacob Hochstetler, ancestor of Elizabeth Hostetler 1298; 1299; 1306.

Peter son of John I born in 1756 in Berks Co., Pa. married Mary Stutzman, daughter of Christian and Barbara (Hochstetler) Stutzman. The family resided in Meyersdale, Pa. and had ch: Abraham; Magdalena; Peter; Jonas; Joseph; Jeremiah; Sarah; Mary and Moses. The daughter Magdalena married John Troyer 15, and they pioneered in the Walnut Creek Twp. area of Holmes Co., Ohio (formerly Tuscarawas). John and Magdalena were grandparents of "our" John Troyer 32.

Peter and Mary (Stutzman) Miller were the parents of three of the young couples who were early settlers in Walnut Creek, Twp., and grandparents of the six children of John and Magdalena (Miller) Troyer, who emigrated from Somerset Co., Pa., to Tuscarawas Co., Ohio in 1809 and into Walnut Creek Twp. on May 6 1810. Of the thirteen people in this migration, Peter and Mary were ancestors of all but five people. It appears that John Troyer was the eldest of this group, with Magdalena second, being four years her husband's junior. They were the only family to bring children in this migration.

Peter Miller and his brother Jacob married Stutzman sisters. Peter married Mary, and Jacob married Anna. These two men scouted the Walnut Creek area for land and they also looked elsewhere searching land for their children. Jacob brought his two sons along on this journey. Others might have been included of the family, as we have no exact record. They saw Indian tepees, as they are recorded present in history, but whether they saw Indians is not known. The party was looking for homestead land and decided the location of the area later known as Walnut Creek Twp. would be a good place to settle. The survey of this land was taken about two years before final settlement of 1810, but Henry Miller is recorded as wintering over that first year. Peter's son Jacob later became the first minister of the area.

Little did the scouting party anticipate the Indian scare of 1812. We do not know when John and Magdalena chose to return to Pennsylvania nor the exact probable cause of the report of John Troyer and his brother Christian being massacred by the Indians nor whether an Abraham Miller reported massacred by the Indians in 1812 was a relative of the scouting party. Peter and his son Joseph were appointed guardians of the John Troyer children. John Troyer was declared dead by the court in Somerset Co., Pa. on Feb. 25, 1812. The issue is dealt with on page 47. John and Magdalena (Miller) Troyer's children returned to Ohio about 1816.

Jacob Miller, eldest son of John Miller the immigrant, was born in Berks Co., Pa. in the area of the Northkill. He moved with his parents eventually to Somerset Co. to the Twp.

of Elklick. He married Anna Stutzman, as stated above, and they had children: John; Henry; and Jacob, who have children that married into the Troyer relationship. Jacob had a son Isaac, who married Lydia Troyer 1261; Henry had a son Jacob that married a Sally Troyer (untraced); John had a son Absolom who married Barbara Schrock 1298.

Catherine Miller born Feb. 14, 1783 m. Benjamin Hochstetler. They moved from Somerset Co., Pa. to Dover Twp. Tuscarawas Co., Ohio in 1812. They later moved to Winesburg, Ohio, in Sugarcreek Twp. Their ch: Elizabeth b. May 26, 1906, married Jacob Schrock and were ancestors of the wives of Ellsworth Troyer 1104 and Benjamin Troyer 53; Susanna b. Oct. 1, 1807 married David J. Schrock son of Jacob Schrock 1306, who was a son of Jacob and Anna (Zug) Schrock 1297; Dorothy was the mother of Isobel Schrock, who married Gabriel Horner 933, in-laws of Emma Kendall 934. Susanna married into the Neff family; some of these children married into the Schrock and Horner relationships.

MILLER FAMILY II

This branch of the Miller family claims Samuel Mueller as the ancestor. Samuel Mueller b. c. 1747 immigrated Nov. 1, 1763 on the Ship Chance, which docked at the Port of Philadelphia, Pa. Samuel was an immigrant from Switzerland. An interesting story is circulated about this family:

Samuel Mueller first settled near Germantown, Pa. Later he moved to Kishacoquillas Valley, Mifflin Co., Pa. He was employed as a teamster on the tow path. It is recalled that Samuel was captured and held for a number of years during the Revolutionary War by one side or the other. When he arrived home after the war he found his home empty, his wife deceased, and his children given to various Amish families for the care needed until they should reach maturity. These children were referred to as "Irish" orphans.

Samuel Mueller was thought to be a Bernese Anabaptist. There were Irish families living in Pa. It is likely that his wife was an Irish girl and that when she found herself in difficult circumstances made plans for her children to be reared in the atmosphere of an Amish home.

Samuel Mueller was not the only Mueller, or Miller, working on the tow path. A John Miller was engaged in working as a teamster for Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Bouquet, who was a soldier in charge of getting supplies through for the Army and was ordered to contain the area. Since the Amish considered themselves neutral, they might engage in this non-combatant venture without bad conscience. It is quite possible Samuel was seized and held until the end of the war. It is also possible this incident happened in Cambria County, Pa. This county was north and east of Bedford County. Samuel Mueller had five children: Christian "Schmidt" Miller born about 1764, and died in 1845; John, "Broad Run" Miller born about 1766; Barbara Miller married Jacob Berkey; Rachel Miller married Samuel Berkley; Isaac Miller born about 1772 married Lena (Honrich) Christner. Two of these children, Christian and John, married into the ancestry of "our" John Troyer family 32.

Christian "Schmidt" Miller was born about 1764 in Mifflin or Cambria County, Pa. He was taken as an orphan into the home of Hans Beiler, a bishop in the Amish Church. Hans Beiler was a blacksmith, and he taught the trade to Christian. Christian did very well as a blacksmith and earned the name of "Schmidt" Miller. During the year 1785 Christian rode over the mountains as a peddler and purchased land from the Indians in Conemaugh Twp. of Somerset Co., Pa. He built a cabin here, married twice and reared ten children. Christian became an Amish bishop and traveled back and forth visiting his children. He lived a full life as blacksmith, minister and bishop in the Amish Church. He and his wives are buried on the family farm plot. Christian Miller was a great grandfather to "our" John Troyer 32. Christian's ch: Elizabeth married a son of Madlena (Troyer) Yoder, daughter of Michael Troyer, Sr.; Magdalena b. July 29, 1803 married Michael Troyer 567; Henry Miller's daughter Elizabeth married Jonas Troyer 568; Daniel Miller married Rebecca Kauffman, a sister to Magdalena Kauffman 30; Jonathan had several children who married into the Troyer relationship: (1) Barbara Miller married Michael Troyer (parents of our John Troyer); (2) Christian Miller married Catherine Frey and had (1) Benedict who married Elizabeth Troyer; (2) Daniel who married Susan Schrock; (3) Jeremias who married Lydia Troyer; and (4) Gertrude who married David D. Troyer; (5) Magdaline had 3 children: (1) Jonathan married Catherine Schrock daughter of Gabriel Schrock, and Polly Berkey; (2) Catherine Hershberger married John J. Kendall 901; (3) Magdalena married Joseph Troyer DBH 11584; (4) Joni had a daughter Magdalena who married John J. Schrock.

THE SCHROCK-SHROCK FAMILY

Our ancestor John Schrock immigrated in 1785 from the community of Zweibrucken, Rhenish Bavaria, (Palatinate) and settled in Huntington Co., Pa., as related by his grandson Benjamin Schrock of Elkhart County, Ind. This information was found in the History of Elkhart Co., Ind. in Elkhart, Ind. Public Library in the genealogical section. Look for a samll light blue book. John Schrock brought to America four children: Jacob; Barbara; Catherine; and Andrew. The children born in America were: Mary; David; John; and Elizabeth. Our Troyer line descends from three of Jacob's children. The Schrock family intermarried into the Troyer family 11 times in 5 generations (including the marriage of Jacob's sister Barbara to David Troyer, son of our ancestor Michael Troyer, Sr.)

The area in Bavaria where John and his four children lived was considered the most ruthless and violent toward the Anabaptist faith, and many fled the area to Switzerland, Moravia, Russia and elsewhere. Many of the songs in the Ausbund are about how many of this area were tortured and martyred.

There were several early Schrocks by the name of John. Casper Schrock had a son named John, and Ulrich Schrock had a son named John. Benedict Shroag history is incomplete. Perhaps he also had a son John. Our Jacob Schrock, son of the immigrant John above, lived 1 mile north of Berlin, Pa. Somerset Twp. in the County of Somerset, Pa. The farm is now owned by Jim Wills. The Casper Schrock grave and possibly home farm is now owned by Jim's father Calvin Wills. Jacob Schrock, who married Anna Zug, had three children that found their way into the Troyer relationship: Jacob Schrock; J. Benjamin Schrock; and Henry Schrock.

Jacob Schrock (son of Jacob Schrock married Anna Zug) was married to Elizabeth Hochstetler, and six of their descendants married into the Troyer family: Rev. Benjamin Schrock (1) married Mary Hochstetler a granddaughter of Joseph Troyer, son of Michael Troyer, Sr.; Rev. Benjamin's daughter Elizabeth (2) married Benjamin Troyer, son of "our" John Troyer; Rev. Benjamin's granddaughter Elva Dean (3) married Ellsworth Troyer, brother to Benjamin Troyer, both sons of "Our" John Troyer; a son Jacob (4) married Kazia Troyer, a descendant of Joseph Troyer, son of Michael Troyer, Sr.; another son Joseph (5) had a son Elmer who married Nora Troyer, sister to Benjamin and Ellsworth Troyer (above); a son John (6) married as second wife Barbara Troyer, a granddaughter of Michael Troyer (married Barbara Miller) father of "Our" John Troyer. In the immigrant John Schrock's line we have 11 descendants from Michael Troyer, Sr.; 7 descendants through Michael Troyer, Jr.; 2 through Michael Troyer's son Joseph; 1 through Michael's son David; and 1 through Michael's daughter Mary.

Jacob and Elizabeth (Hochstetler) Schrock were from the area of Berlin, Pa., and their parents were pioneers in the area now known as Holmes Co., Ohio. Elizabeth was a daughter of Benjamin and Catherine (Miller) Hochstetler, and three of her sisters married into the Schrock family. Elizabeth's mother Catherine Miller was a daughter of John Miller, who was a brother to Peter Miller, a great grandfather of "our" John Troyer. See Miller Family I.

It is not known just where Jacob and Elizabeth Schrock resided before he came into ownership of the family farm in 1833. This farm is east and south of Walnut Creek, Ohio, now owned by Laura Machan and the heirs of Benjamin Troyer. The family burial plot is located near the original farm of his parents, Jacob and Anna Zug Schrock, about 1 1/4 miles south of Trail, Ohio.

In 1848, the family decided to move to Indiana. They arrived in the fall coming into Miami County from the south of McGrawsville, Ind. They had to ford the river, and the horses were unable to pull the wagon through. The family was housed in the little cabin pictured at the beginning of Schrock Gen. The report in the Howard-Miami Church History states that fourteen spent the night with the Peter Stinemans who were living in the Hostetler cabin at that particular time. This cabin was used by many of the early settlers when they first arrived in the area. They were later able to use an old cabin until they moved into their own home. The new farm was in Liberty Twp., Howard Co., Ind. Jacob's original plot was on a quarter section of land he obtained from the government. He bought land until his ownings totaled 1,280 acres. This was considered one of the larger holdings in the county.

Jacob and Elizabeth's last child John was born in Ind.; the other children were all born in Holmes Co., Ohio. Jacob was a farmer and blacksmith, and they enjoyed the new farm which was close to a well-traveled road. An old Indian trail passed across the farm, and often Indians would stop over and be in the area for several days.

It is not known just when Jacob built a frame house, but it is recorded he was one of the first to build one in the area. It was Jacob's intent to leave something for each of his children. It is likely he remembered the inheritance he got from the will of his great grandfather Long and how it had made his life easier. His plan was to leave 160 acres of land for each of the boys and an equal distribution of money for the girls. Jacob left no Will and died before his estate was settled. In later years he was a member of the Zion Mennonite Church. He gave some of his land for a cemetery plot, and he was the first person to be buried in the plot designated as Schrock Cemetery. The name could be Shrock. Elizabeth survived him thirty years and is buried beside him on the family plot.

John Benjamin Schrock was born in Tuscarawas Co., Ohio now known as Holmes Co., Ohio. J. Benjamin married Mary Keck, daughter of Andrew and Barbara (Yoder) Keck. Mary's grandfather Conrad Keck married Mary Troyer, daughter of our ancestor Michael Troyer, Sr. J. Benjamin and Mary were married ten years when they moved from the present Holmes Co., Ohio area in 1850. They traveled by wagon and by canal as did his brother Jacob. They purchased land on the Old Delphi Road and settled in an old log cabin on the farm for a year before they moved into their new home.

They were members of the Howard-Miami Church during the split, and the church dwindled down until no church services were held for a time. This upset Mary so much she decided to do something about the matter. She invited the young people to their home for an evening of entertainment, and the young people decided the evening was so enjoyable they wanted to continue by holding hymn sings. This pleased Mary, and the meetings continued.

It was not long before the older members of the church desired to be included in these sings. It was not long before a new spirit was felt in the church, and meetings began. Mary (Keck) Schrock is given credit for restoring the church to its former usefulness. It was J. Benjamin and Mary (Keck) Schrock parents of "our" Caroline Schrock who came to the Howard-Miami area at the age of two years. Caroline 611, 32, was one of fourteen children born to J. Benjamin and Mary Schrock and she outlived the rest of her family. Her sister Sarah lived one year less than Caroline. Andrew and Barbara died in their sixties; Henry lived to be 59; the rest died at 37 years and under. Eli, Tina and Lydia died in their thirties; Tina married "Little" John Kendall; Janna died in the teens; Simon died age 9; Mary died at age 3; Fanny married Jacob Troyer and had a son Wesley who was 4 years of age at her death. Two of the 14 children died infants.

Mary Schrock lived with her family in Indiana about 20 years, and she passed away. John Benjamin was a widower for 5 years. In 1873 he married Anna Harris and they lived together for 27 years. The last three years of his life J. Benjamin was blind. He was good counsel in the church and never complained because of his affliction. He was a good worker in the church and regretted that he was unable to help when his strength failed. At his death he left a widow, 5 living children, 29 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren. The funeral service was held in German and English in the Mennonite Church, and the building could not accomodate nearly all the people. He was buried in the Schrock Cemetery.

Henry Schrock was born in Somerset Co., Pa. and came to Ohio at the age of 5. His father, Jacob Schrock, entered land in 1813 which is now owned by Melvin Miller. By 1828, the family was living 3 miles east and 1/2 mile south of Walnut Creek, Ohio. Henry married Barbara Miller 1302, 1292. They moved on a farm 1 1/4 miles south and 1/2 mile west of Trail, Ohio. The family attended the Walnut Creek Amish Meeting House, and Henry was on the committee of three to find a suitable place for the church and to solicit funds for the building. The last church service held in a private home was held in the home of Henry and Barbara Shrock. They remained with the Church when the name changed to the Walnut Creek Mennonite Church. Henry and Barbara were parents of eight children, 4 dying in infancy. Their daughter Catherine became the first wife of "our" John Troyer, 32. Anna married Christian Lantz; John H. married Elizabeth Christner; Elias H. married Elizabeth Wenger. The story of this family is told in detail in the Shrock Book: Descendants of Henry Shrock and Barbara Miller by Oscar Miller, Berlin, Ohio.

THE ZUG FAMILY

HANS ZUG ancestor of all "our" John Troyer children and stepchildren was born in 1630 (exact place not known). He became a minister active in the Anabaptist movement in the Canton of Zurich, Switzerland. How he escaped the explusion of Anabaptists in 1648 from Zurich is not revealed. Perhaps he did leave for the Palatinate for a time, returning later to minister a Zurich Church. The authorities were very active in removing Anabaptist from the Canton of Zurich. When seven teachers and elders of the church were apprehended at Signau in 1659, they were accused of conducting church sevices against the law and taken to the authorities in Bern. They were arrested and assigned to district prisons. Hans was taken on one occasion to a former orphanage. They were kept for some time at very hard labor and supplied with only rye and speltz grain to eat in order to save expenses to the authorities. They were reviled, slandered and scorned on account of their faith.

We find Hans Zaugg's name in the earlier editions of Martyr's Mirror because the printers in America did not have the full story prior to printing of the book. Hans Zaug suffered persecution but did not lose his life in captivity. He was imprisioned for his faith and suffered the same treatment as others who were incarcerated with him. His imprisonment for the above offense was for one year and seven months. Then he was transported by ship possibly to become a galley slave. This meant certain death.

Somehow Hans escaped and returned to the country of Switzerland. We find this same statement repeated over and over with the Swiss who were expelled from the homeland. No matter how rough the authorities made their life in prison, the accused did everything in their power to return to Switzerland and home. This is the plight of Hans as he went to perform the baptism for his son Peter on Dec. 20, 1661. That very day he was recaptured and taken to jail for the second time. This time his sentence was for a period of ten years.

A more harsh treatment was imposed on ministers and on leaders. Adherents were treated mildly with the view of making converts to the state church or encouraging the followers to "amend" their ways. Following the prison term the prisoner was exiled and his property divided among his wife and children, who remained with the state church. Should a man expire in prison, his estate was forfeited.

On Hans first sentence the decision in regard to his case was to hold him for life. Hans with the Grace of God resigned himself to this fate. When the jailers noted that this measure did not jolt the man into compliance or destroy his faith, they decided upon another plan. The prisoner could choose one of the following:

1. Go to the state church.
2. Be perpetually consigned to the galleys (death)

3. Die by the hands of executioners.

This choice was so slim, Thiellum Von Bracht said, "He must inevitably endanger either soul or body, or both."

Since Hans was kept in an orphanage, it seems likely that the jails were swamped and that personnel to handle the prisoners were short-handed. Some of the keepers developed empathy for their charges. Some prisoners were given opportunity to leave the building for a time. There is record of a man escaping each day out of a hole in the wall and returning each night before his absence was discovered. The orphanage was not a regular jail, and perhaps there were some loopholes which allowed Hans to come and go while in prison. He was perhaps adept at escape but returned for the sentence. This seems likely since at the end of his long sentence he is reported to be the father of twelve children.

The ten-year sentence ended in 1671, and before Hans' release he was required to sign a paper which gave his house and property over to the state and to leave the country never to return. His last release was granted at the request of sympathizers, and he was permitted to leave the country for Germany where he supposedly settled near the community of Darmstadt (or, as recent research indicates, another community of similiar name). While the report of a man with twelve children, a poor-looking horse, and six Rix dollars seen in Alsace in 1671 may not be our Hans Zaug, he certainly fits the description. Hans died at the age of 45, due, no doubt, to the hardship of prison life.

John, Moritz, and Christian Zug (with his wife Anna Kannable Zug) came on the Ship Francis and Elizabeth to the Port of Philadelphia, Pa., on Sept. 21, 1742. Our branch of the family descends from Christian and Anna (Kannabel) Zug. Christian, the eldest of the three brothers, was born about 1715. John was born about 1718 and Moritz about 1721. Christian and Anna established their home. The two brothers made a home with them until they married. Christian and Anna were parents of three or four children when they arrived in America.

One of their eight children and born in America was our ancestor Jacob Zug born about 1752 and married to Anna Lang, the daughter of Christian and Barbara Lang. Jacob was married (2) to Gertrude Miller. She died and he married (3) Magdalena Schrock, no issue. In all Jacob was the father of ten children. Two children from this family are of special interest to us.

Anna Zug born 178_-1822 married Jacob Schrock, son of John Schrock the immigrant, and our ancestor. Jacob and Anna Schrock, Jacob and Magdalena Zug, and others moved form Somerset Co., Pa. to Walnut Creek Twp. Tuscarawas Co., Ohio in the year 1812. Three of their children figure prominently in the John Troyer family. See Nos. 611, 1299, 1302, and 1298.

Barbara Zug b. Mar. 11, 1778 and married at age 26 in 1804 to Solomon Hochstetler b. Mar. 15, 1785 at age 19. By 1810 Solomon was accused in the Somerset Amish community of murdering Susanna Hochstetler, a seven-months-old child of his brother John Hochstetler Jr. The murder occurred on March 5, 1810, when the child's parents, John and Magdalena (Lehman) Hochstetler, and Magdalena's sister Barbara Lehman were at a sugar camp a short distance behind the family home. When they left the house, the two women placed the child in a cradle securely covered with a feather comfort. Later upon returning to the house they found the cradle empty, and a search was made to find the child. They found the dead infant between two mattresses. An inquest was held, but since they did not know the person or persons responsible, the matter was closed. It was revealed later that Barbara had an opinion, as to the person responsible.

During the moments after the child's dead body was discovered, the family was in shock. Barbara thought she saw Solomon Hochstetler at the window several times trying to look inside the house. Barbara thought Solomon was responsible for the child's death, and in her grief Magdalena agreed with her. Solomon did not learn of this accusation until after the child was buried.

At the inquest, Barbara testified that her husband was home the night of the murder. Solomon's immediate family believed in his innocence, but his relatives did not. Solomon was not yet a member of the Amish Church and now he would be unable to join. Solomon tried to convince everyone he was innocent, but the more he tried to convince others, the more certain they were Solomon was guilty.

This story points out what happens when one is under censure, or is outside the Amish Church. The Amish believed in avoidance and the ban was exercised against members and nonmembers alike. The Amish were to have nothing to do with people outside the church, and those under the ban were considered outside the church. The Amish believed it best to avoid eating, drinking, buying and selling with the accused, because backsliders were regarded as full of danger to the pious. If a member of the church associated with those under the ban they could become contaminated or taken for backsliders. This intercourse could be injurious to the backslider himself, for by such companionship he would be confirmed in sin. A person under the ban needed isolation to reflect upon his offense. Human companionship in his misery was denied him.

The purpose of avoidance was to bring the backslider to shame and repentance. While the Amish were admonished by the church to have nothing to do with a person under the ban, no one was to engage in anything contrary to love, benevolence, mercy, Christian discretion and justice. They were reminded not to break any commandments.

Solomon was 25 years of age and the father of two children when this ugly circumstance was thrust upon him. Barbara was 32 years of age and known for her truthfulness. Her word was accepted by the authorities at the inquest. The Soloman Hochstetlers had no more children after the incident.

The practice of avoidance between husbands and wives was part of the reason the strict Amish code was refuted in Menno Simons' early church in Holland. The people could not abide by the terms, and felt this part of the ban was unjustified.

Two years before the perpetuator of the murder made a death-bed confession, Solomon was accepted into the Amish Church and baptized as a repentent man at the age of 73. The burden of unwarrented persecution was upon him for 48 years. The suffering this couple, their children and grandchildren endured can never be measured nor fully mitigated. Solomon was overcome with joy when his name was cleared and status was restored to him. His first words were regret that his own brother could not know, for the child's parents were deceased.

The murderer divulged his awful secret after the taint of crime could no longer be set upon him. We have no word that he asked forgiveness for the wrongdoing he caused Solomon and his family or the suffering brought to his own children and descendants. He committed murder in a fit of anger toward the John Hochstetler family because he thought they were preventing his tryst with Magdalena's sister, Barbara Lehman. It is a sorry story, but told as a reminder of Barbara's reputation for truthfulness (which perhaps kept her husband out of jail) and the awesome power of discrimination wrongfully used. Perhaps Barbara and Solmon were responsible for the decline of avoidance and the ban in the Amish Church.

LEGEND:
This is a picture of the John Troyer 32 family that lived in Ohio. The picture was taken in front of Katie Troyer Hershberger's home on the hill near Walnut Creek, Ohio in 1905. Orpha Troyer loaned this picture and named the people.

1 MICHAEL TREIER lived near Berlin, Pa. in Somerset Twp. Somerset Co., Pa. He was b. perhaps, in Permasens, Germany c. 1734. His parents are thought to be residents of Trub, Canton Bern, Switzerland, but we do not know whether they migrated during the Reformation, or if they were native to Switzerland. Michael d. in April 1807, and was bur. on the home farm plot. His will was written in 1803 (see page 44). His widow Magdalena d. Mar. 13, 1827 in Ohio at her dau. Veronica Miller's home, although she made her home with Elizabeth and David Miller in accordance with Michael's Will. Magdalena is bur. south and east of Charm, Ohio. Michael immigrated to the Port of Philadelphia, Pa., on Nov. 3 1750, in the Ship Brotherhood, and according to Seth Troyer, Michael's stepfather Mr. Holly and family. They then journeyed to the Northkill, where they lived for about seven years near the present community of Shartlesville, Pa. Here an Indian raid in 1757, forced them to remove to the southern tip of Berks Co., Pa. The Somerset County Outline and Supplement lists them in Bedford Co., Oct. 13, 1771, where they are continuously listed until 1810, when Michael Troyer Jr. is on the list without his father. Michael Troyer, Jr., lived south of Berlin, Pa. on Buffalo, Creek and there is reasonable evidence that Michael Troyer, Sr., lived there for a period of time and later moved to north of Berlin, Pa. Michael was married, perhaps twice. Ch: John 2; Michael Jr. 14; Christian 525; Barbara 563; Madlena 564; Anna 565; Jacob 566; Henry 596; Mary 605; Joseph 626; Andrew 826; David 832; Veronica 898; Elizabeth 899.

2 JOHN TROYER 1, Walsingham Twp., Norfolk Co., Ontario, Canada (Troyer's Flats). He was b. Feb. 3, 1753, in Berks Co., Pa. He d. Feb. 28, 1842 at Troyer's Flats, Ontario, Can. He is bur. on the west bank of the valley, in the home plot. He m. Sophronia Reichenbach b. 1753, and d. Sept. 15, 1821. She immigrated with John to Canada, and is bur. at Troyer's Flats in Ontario, Can. John was a Tunker and exempt from military service by paying the government a yearly fine. He was a Dr. of herbal medicine, perhaps set bones, and was able to perform for the needs of the pioneer. He was a builder, a grist mill owner, a blacksmith, able "to witch" for water and grew a fine garden with an accompanying fruit orchard. He was a practiced shot with a rifle, and kept his table supplied with fresh meat at all times. He was respected, and remembered as a friend to many early settlers. In later years he became the target of unfortunate prejudice. We know of only two children born to this family, although more may be bur. in Pa. Ch: Barbara 3; Michael 4.

An excellent teacher, she obtained her education at Bluffton College in Bluffton, Ohio and Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana. Orpha was more than a teacher; she was a writer and regular contributor to church periodicals. The last one was the story of her mother, and she wrote at the request of the editor. She pioneered in Bible School Work, serving when no materials were available so she and a co-worker provided materials from "scratch". She worked in Canton, Ohio and in Kitchener, Ontario by request. In Walnut Creek, Ohio she was the first woman Bible School Superintendant and worked at this task for a period of sixteen or more years. She was officer in the state WMSC for fifteen or more years and Vice President of the General Committee of the WMSC for five years. She was a ready conversationalist, a person of great empathy, a willing worker, a helping hand, and a good friend. Orpha retired from public school teaching at the end of a 5-year term. The people of Oak Grove Church in Smithville, Ohio were so enamoured of her they said, "Orpha is the best preacher that Oak Grove ever had." Shortly before Orpha's death her family and relatives gathered at a family reunion. Although Orpha was in much pain, she enjoyed the occasion and offered her assistance in compiling this book. It was her wish to take five family histories and to complete the material for publication. Her pain and health would not permit her to do this work.

Sept 26, 1905. She was dau. of Rev. Benjamin and Mary Schrock 802, whose maiden name was Hochstetler. Ben came with his family from Holmes Co., Ohio, to Howard Co., Ind. in spring of 1873, when he was about sixteen. He was not happy about the move, but he soon adjusted to Ind. and spent the rest of his life in residence at Howard Co., Ind. Ben and Ben Betsy (as they were called) bought a farm one mile north of the home place. They lived in a log house which burned to the ground. Benjamin was a farmer, kept bees, and produced honey. He had fruit trees, and he made apple butter, vinegar and other products. He had a steam engine and threshing machine, and he operated a threshing ring around the turn of the century. He was one of the pioneers in the gravel business. He scooped gravel out of pits for use on the mud roads prevalent at that time. This conditioned the roads for all weather and was a big improvement. Benjamin did estate work and helped people with estate matters. They were faithful members of the local Howard-Miami Church. He helped in the work, caretaking and financial matters of the Mast cemetery, where both he and his wives are buried.

Oct. 17, 1882 at Nappanee, Ind. They lived near Kokomo, Ind. for a time until Joe Horners moved to Mi., and they decided to move in the early 1900's. They lived on a farm near Chief, Mi. where Ira bought a farm.
After four years, they tired of Mich. and returned to Howard Co., Ind. Later they moved back to Mich. for a short time, then moved to Goshen, Ind. where Ira died.
Jennie celebrated her birthday on Sunday Feb. 20, 1983, when her family, relatives and friends gathered at her church and were seated with her for the morning service. A large meal was prepared by the church for the family and church members. A huge birthday cake with the birthdate Feb. 21, 1983 announced the occasion. The church presented her with a recorder and tapes of the New Testament. Another reception was planned for her at the nursing home with a huge cake, punch, nuts, and candies were served to the group. She received a number of small gifts and two nightgowns. In attendance for this special day were her brothers Percy and Orval, and most of Carrie's children were there. One of Laird's daughters, Ruth Eddie, was there and a niece, Florence Weaver. This was a big day for Jennie and she held up wonderfully well. She continued to receive birthday cards and visits from relatives and friends. This 100th birthday will be long remembered by all. (F.W.) Ch: Velma I. Yoder b. Mar. 6, 1898 in Walnut Creek, Ohio, Mary Hochstetler, b. Jan. 23, 1876 and d. Apr. 24, 1935 in Walnut Creek, Ohio, the dau. of Daniel and Sarah (Hershberger) Hochstetler. In 1911, Michael Troyer purchased a meat business that today is known all over the state of Ohio and shipped all over the country by the name of Troyer's Genuine Trail Bologna. The name Trail comes from the town of Trail, which at first was called Indian Trail Creek, and later shortened. A man in the west, when discussing Trail Bologna, said, "Yes, I have met Mr. Trail!"

In the beginning Michael worked long hours, from 3:30 in the morning until the work was done late at night, with the assistance of his young son Lloyd. Eventually the whole family was involved in the business. The Troyer General Store in Trail opened, and Trail Bologna was sold there. In 1924, Lloyd purchased the business from his father, and Michael was fifty-six years of age when he retired. Mennonite. Ch: Roy 310; Lloyd 312; Beulah 329; John 330; Clyde 333; Gendale 336.

Lloyd purchased the Troyer Trail Bologna factory and business. Under Lloyd's able direction the business made phenomenal growth, with 16 men employed in the business and 12,000 rings of bologna produced in a 4-day week. Lloyd's wife Minerva became the senior member of the family corporation after the death of her husband. Minerva depended upon her sons to run the business and corporation. It was Minerva who decided that the youngest and the eldest member of the family should know the secret recipe for the bologna and be responsible for passing the recipe on to the next generation. At the death of Minerva, her wise decisions make the continuation of the Trail Bologna business secure in the hands of her descendants. United Church of Christ. He was son of John and Magdalena (Keck) Garber and great-grandson of Michael Troyer Sr. Abraham's grandfather Garber left Somerset Co., Pa. and moved to Holmes Co., Ohio in 1812. Magdalena's parents, Conrad and Mary (Troyer) Keck 605, were early pioneers also. John and Magdalena (Keck) Garber lived in Holmes Co., Ohio for a time and then moved in 1828 settling in the home known as "The Old Homestead," in Tuscarawas Co., Ohio. Abraham the husband of Anna was born in the "Old Homestead," and there he and Anna raised their family. This was a pioneer cabin to begin with, and as he prospered he built a huge log house. John Garber was operating three saw mills, and had an interest in the Dover Lumber Company with mills in Idaho and a daily output of 100 thousand feet of lumber per day. It was then John Garber Sr. dreamed of the mansion he would build, which stands today as one of the outstanding rural homes unequaled in the state of Ohio at the time it was erected in 1843. The huge blocks of sandstone of which the building is constructed were quarried on the home farm and taken by sled over the snow to the location of the new home one mile from Strassburg, Ohio. Twenty-four rows of sandstone blocks, each one foot high, reach from the ground to the eaves. The walls of the house are two feet thick. The fence that surrounds this mansion has 90 stone posts, one foot square and ten foot long. Some of the posts are no longer standing. The house presents a fine example of doric masonry. John H. Garber purchased this home in the settlement of the estate. (Historical Atlas, Tuscarawas Co., Ohio, 1875 & 1908 Combined. Ref. 977-166.)1

501 JOSEPH TROYER 500, Smithville, Ohio, b. Oct. 17, 1824 in German Twp. (now Clark) in Holmes Co., Ohio. Joseph resided in Smithville, Ohio, attended the Oak Grove Church, and is thought to be the eldest of the children. He may be the Joseph Troyer of DJH 6944.

502 PETER TROYER 500, b. Apr. 28, 1826 in German Twp. Holmes Co., Ohio. He m. Elizabeth King and moved to Oregon to the Hubbard community. Elizabeth is a dau. of Jacob Y. and Elizabeth (Lapp) King. Ch: Amos m. Delilah Yoder.

503, MAGDALENA TROYER 500, b. Sept. 12, 1828 in German Twp. Holmes Co., Ohio. This may be the Magdalena Troyer that m. Eli Kauffman. Little information is known on this family.

504, LEVI TROYER 500, Orrville, Ohio b. Feb. 23, 1831 and d. in June 1906. He m. Leah Zook, dau. of Joel and Miss Kenagy Zook. This family attended the Paradise Brethren Church, and Levi and Leah are bur. in the cemetery, but no stones were legible enough to discover the exact place of burial. Ch: Mary b. 1857; Emma b. 1859; Menno b. 1863; Joel b. 1865; Jacob b. 1868. (1880 census.) No more is known.

523 BENJAMIN TROYER 521, German Twp. Holmes Co., Ohio, b. May 1, 1836 in Ohio, and d. Nov. 12, 1884. (The reason for the question is the fact that no less than six uncles lived in Holmes Co., Ohio, plus an unrelated John Troyer near Trail. This does not count the numerous cousins. I believe most of the children of Joseph are correctly identified, but when information lists a Joseph Troyer had a Benjamin, it is necessary to be cautious.) He m. Jan. 29, 1859 in Indiana, Elizabeth Yoder b. 525 CHRISTIAN D. TROYER 1, Walnut Creek, Ohio, b. either Jan. 5, 1755, or May 8, 1756 in Shartlesville, Berks Co., Pa. and d. 1839 in Walnut Creek, Ohio, m. (1) Barbara Yoder b. 1756, d. in 1789. He m.(2) Apr. 15, 1790 at Harrisburg, Pa. by Rev. Jacob Schneider, Elizabeth Becker (Backer & Boecker.) She was b. June 24, 1761 and d.d. unkn. the dau. of George Baker (or other spelling) b. Mar. 8, 1728 in Stratsbourg, Germany, mother, name unkn., was b. Apr. 22, 1732. Her father emigrated to Pa., in 1747, and d. at Harrisburg, Pa. (Information from TAC and Mary E. Troyer Robinson, great-granddaughter of Christian). Christian immigrated with John in 1788/9 to Canada. Christian made his home for a time at Sugar Loaf west of Port Eve, Ontario. He was at Long Point in 1789 (Conc. 1, Lot 21) Walsingham Twp. Norfolk Co., Ont. He lived in Vaughan Twp. in 1804 (Lot 5, Conc. 3) Ontario, Canada. His petition for land in Vaughan dated Mar. 25, 1809. Christian was a Mennonite and a minister of the Mennonite Church in Edgeley. He was unordained. (The church today is part of an exhibit in Black Creek Pioneer Village near Toronto, Ontario). At the time Christian and his family lived in Brothers Valley. The area where they resided was called Bedford Co. and later became a part of Somerset Co., Pa. It is possible that Christian immigrated in 1788 to assess the land and erect a cabin. When he came back to the States he found the new baby, and his wife died within the year (1789). He is listed on the census as having land in 1779, at 150 acres and 1 horse. In 1783, he owned a cow. In 1784, he owns one dwelling house with 3 whites (Christian, Barbara and a child ?Magdalena.) Ch: Magdalena 526; David 527; Maria 537; Jacob 545; Catherine 554; Christian 556. Christian returned to the states about 1814-16. He is credited with bringing 35 pioneers from Pa., to settle in Upper Canada. Signatures in petition for land in possession of Marlene J. Grant, 81 Hansen Road North, Unit 49, Brampton, Ont. L6V 3C7.

His two wives are bur. near Farmerstown, Ohio. David was thirty-one years of age or more when he and his father migrated to Ohio. They farmed in the Farmerstown area. Whether his second wife died on a trip to Indiana and her body was returned to Ohio, or whether David was a resident of Elkhart Co., Ind. is not known. David purchased land, 100 acres of land in Coshocton Co., Ohio from Jonas Stanberry for $200, on Feb. 29, 1820. This farm is located half-way between Charm and Walnut Creek, Ohio. There is some thought he was resident of Ohio 4-6 years previous to this time. The only child to remain in Ohio was Elias Troyer. 596 HENRY TROYER 1, Stoney Brook Twp. Somerset Co., Pa. near Shanksville, Pa. He was b. Sept. 13, 1766 and d. 1870.

1790 PA 1770

He m. Veronica Kauffman d. b&d. unkn. There are a number of stories about this Henry Troyer. One that he was adept at running, and could out-distance three Indians in a race. The other is that he was out of funds, and the family needed flour so he went to the Shanksville Mill and made a request for flour. The miller asked for the money for the flour, and Henry said, "I don't have the money, can't I have credit?"

"No, the miller said, I'm giving no more credit!" Henry thought about the matter for awhile and said,

"Will you trade, will you take a bear skin for the flour?"

"Have you got a bear skin?" the miller asked.

"No," said Henry, "but you just hold the flour for me, and I'll be back with the bear skin." About evening Henry came back with the bear skin, and took his flour.

"Betsy and I will be all right now, we have meat and we have flour."

Elizabeth his daughter was evidently his cook at the time. This story is the one behind the "Henry who caught a bear" or another story related in Troyer Family History p.16. Many recall the legends, but not the reason for the legend. The original account is found in the Somerset Co., History. Ch: Magdalena 597; Anna b. 1812-Aug. 31, 1882; Henry 598; David b. Benjamin was son of Jacob, and Anna (Zug) Schrock. (See Zug 1316 and Schrock 1298. The family lived in the Co., of Holmes until 1849, when they moved to Miami Co., Ind., their trip to Indiana was partly by wagon, and partly by use of the new canal. Travel in those days was difficult, due to the lack of proper roads. They settled on a farm in the old log cabin pictured on p. . They lived there a year while a suitable home was constructed. The Old Delphi Road went by the Schrock home. This was a great convenience. They were in the midst of the church problems when the church split, and the part Mary (Hochstetler) Schrock played in reuniting the church is found in the article Faith of Our Fathers, p. 1. Dec. 26, 1870 in Howard Co., Ind. and d. Sept. 2, 1946 in Miami Co., Ind. She was dau. of Simon and Caroline (Schrock) Kendall. Emma was one year of age when her father was killed, and later her mother m.(2) John Troyer 32, she grew up in a family of 31 children. Joseph was ordained a minister in the Mennonite Church the year he married, and was a minister of the Howard & Miami Church, Kokomo, Ind. from 1889-1903. The family moved to Manistee Co., Mich. and he was the minister there 1903-1910. Emma did not care for Mich. and the family returned to the Kokomo, Ind. area where he preached from 1910-1930's. Joseph farmed along with preaching, as was the custom in those day, many ministers furnished their own livelihood. Emma was a very particular person, and liked to keep her house clean and neat. Joseph joined the United Brethren Church as a young man, but a few years later, he united with the Howard-Miami Mennonite Church.

When Joseph reached retirement, his health was failing. His last sermon was: "The Power of God," preached Feb. 6, 1944. The last church service he attended was on Dec. 31, 1944. His last audible scripture, "Be thou faithful until death, and I will give thee a crown of life." He was critically ill only a few days. Emma joined the Howard & Miami Mennonite Church in her youth. She experienced several months of failing health before her death. Family Charts

In our genealogy we have a three-generational-outline of the Michael Troyer Sr. family, and cover six children of Michael Troyer Sr., for five generations or more. The Jacob Troyer lineage was lost in a fire many years ago, and this is now partially reconstructed. We have new information on the Joseph Troyer line. Children of Michael Troyer Sr., whose descendants married into "our" John Troyer line (a descendant of Michael Troyer Jr.) are: Mary, Joseph, Christian and David. We have many families doubly related to Michael Sr. as: 34, 43, 337, 1040, 1086, 1104, 1127, 1137, 1148, 1167, 1193 , 1202, 1216, 1218 and perhaps others. Some are doubly related to the John Schrock line as: 53, 1104 and 1202 and perhaps we others equally related.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS:

Michael Troyer Sr. lived north of Berlin, Pa., and across the road from the S. Boyd Dickey home. These farms were located on Amish Lane, a road that led from one Amish farm to another between Berlin and Brotherton, Pa. Michael Troyer Sr. bought this angular (shoe horn shaped) plot of ground from a Joseph Mishler in 1790. The log farm home was on the eastern and the smaller end of the land that extended west between the Blough farm and the Zug farm. The Dickey property was originally Zug land. Whether the farm was owned by Christian, or Jacob will need to be determined, as both farms were close together and across the road from Michael Troyer Sr. We presume the Jacob Zug was our ancestor who married Anna Lang.

The tub mill Michael Troyer Sr. operated was a type of milling that developed into the turbine engine we know today. This type of milling was used in Europe quite early; the Amish brought this invention to America. Various products were milled such as: wood, corn, wheat and paper. Many of these mills on one creek caused it to be named Tub Mill Creek and other tub mills were located on Stoney Brook Creek. Whether Michael purchased the mill from someone else, or built it himself will take more research.

Christian Troyer used an alias in his trips from Canada to the Colonies. He was known by two names: Moyer and Boyer or Christian Moyer and Christian Boyer. It is unclear how his alias was used.

John Troyer had contact with a Dr. Peter Fahrney, who lived in Anteitam, Md. Whether he and other family members were in Md. during the Revolution seems a likely possibility. Just before moving to Canada, John lived in Roxbury Pa., and was in practice there. Roxbury is about six miles north and east of Berlin, Pa. Dr. John Troyer herbal doctor lived outside the community proper and near Elder John Groner. It is possible the Patriots directed their activity against Dr. John Troyer because of his medical ability, and lack of consideration for the army. (Anna Glessner, Berlin, Pa. contributed most of the above, the last comment is mine. HT).
